Soviet Breaks With Poland's Cabinet

Protest Over Disappearance of 10,000 Polish Officers Is Cause

MOSCOW, April 26 (AP).—Soviet Russia has broken off diplomatic relations with the Polish Government in London, accusing it of co-operating with Germany in charging that the Soviet Union was responsible for the deaths of 10,000 Polish officers, it was announced officially today.

Tass, the Russian official news agency, said Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov handed the Polish ambassador, Tadeusz Romer, a note here yesterday, denouncing the Polish Government and charging it with helping the Germans carry out a "hostile campaign" against Russia in connection with Germany's accusation that the Russians murdered the Polish officers near Smolensk.

Molotov's note, which said the recent behaviour of the Polish Government violated "all regulations and standards of relations between two Allied states," charged flatly that the Germans had killed the Polish officers.

The territorial question also was involved. The note charged that the Poles by falling in line with Nazi propaganda, hoped to gain some territorial concessions in Russia.

STATEMENT NOT YET RECEIVED

Polish Government offices in London were closed over the Easter holiday, and those officials reached in the city said the Government had not yet received the statement. Diplomatic sources emphasized that the note would be given the deepest consideration, and some took it for granted that Britain and the United States would be consulted before any action was taken or any reply made.

The Polish Cabinet was summoned for a meeting in London tomorrow.

British sources said the break constituted a temporary success for Nazi propaganda, which long has been directed at splitting the United Nations.

These British circles, who may not be identified by name, said, however, that the situation is not "impossible" and held hope for eventual reconciliation between the Governments of Russia and Poland.

The B.B.C. said in a broadcast that Polish Ambassador Romer had left Moscow.

CAUSES ANXIETY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—The first rupture of diplomatic relations between two members of the United Nations—Soviet Russia's break with Poland—caused anxiety in official and diplomatic quarters here tonight.

The United States State Department immediately voiced regret,

Break Looms With Finland

STOCKHOLM, April 26 (AP). — A break in diplomatic relations between the United States and Finland appeared imminent today—perhaps only a matter of hours—as advices from Helsinki indicated little possibility of a change in Finnish foreign policy which might ease the situation.

While the Finnish public was reported deeply disturbed by the prospect of a break, Finland's official position was summed up tersely by a source close to the Government with these words:

"The Americans cannot expect us to tie a noose around our own necks."

The statement was an obvious reference to United States desires that Finland settle her differences with Russia, break her ties with Germany and withdraw from the war.

Germany has been reported bringing strong pressure on Finland to step up her military effort against Russia and aid the Nazis in mounting a Spring offensive against Leningrad.

Reports were current last night that Washington already had broken relations with Finland, but they were described as "premature" by a high Finnish Foreign Office source in Helsinki.

Duke of Connaught Dies at Ottawa

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP) — The Duke of Connaught, twenty-eight, only son of the late Prince Arthur of Connaught, died suddenly at Government House today after a short illness. The duke was unmarried and the title lapses with his death.

A private funeral service will be held at St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church here. Only the Governor-General and Princess Alice with members of their staff and households will attend.

More Miners On Strike in Coal Fields

Lewis Snubs U.S. War Labor Board

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—The United States' War Labor Board asked high officials of the United Mine Workers tonight to halt work stoppages in bituminous mines, but additional walkouts occurred.

At least 14,500 were reported idle today, 9,500 in Pennsylvania, 4,000 in Alabama and 1,000 in Kentucky.

The board telegraphed appeals to John L. Lewis, U.M.W. president, and other officers of the union asking that walkouts at Pennsylvania mines be halted and planned similar action with respect to mines in other areas.

At New York, where wage negotiations had been conducted, a source close to U.M.W. officials who requested his name not be used, said he would "not be surprised if sporadic strikes in the industry which started last week began to spread without any word from Lewis," adding that Lewis had not forbidden such action.

Lewis continued an unbroken silence on the whole situation.

In addition to growing acuteness in the situation in the Pennsylvania fields, U.M.W. unions in Illinois, Indiana and Alabama had notified operators that temporary agreements to continue work while the New York negotiations were under way would run out at the week-end and that work then would stop.

Although spokesmen for the U.M.W. said no work stoppages had been authorized, 10,000 miners laid down their tools and there were reports of "slow-downs" in some pits continuing to produce war-vital fuel.

LEWIS SNUBS BOARD AGAIN

Earlier in the day, John L. Lewis, U.M.W. president, had snubbed the W.L.B. for a second time. Lewis, who had paid no attention to the W.L.B.'s summons to a hearing Saturday, also ignored its request that he submit today a list of names from which the board might pick a labor representative on a three-man panel to investigate the wage dispute. The board then proceeded to designate the panel.

The board's telegram said the strikes are "seriously interrupting the production of vitally needed war materials" and that they are "not only contrary to the national policy and labor's pledge, but are also contrary to the terms of your present extended agreement with the mine operators."

Lewis made no immediate explanation of his action in not suggesting

Canadians Flew With Russians in Winter

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, April 26.—The Eighth Army has held all its gains in Tunisia, and the First Army has taken almost the whole of Long Stop Hill in the Meze Zel Bab sector. There has been some of the bitterest fighting in the whole African campaign, accompanied by a tremendous air onslaught.

Although it is probable Rommel has left North Africa altogether, the Nazis are fighting with unexampled stubbornness and skill. There is not the slightest trace of weakening of their morale and, says The Times' correspondent at Algiers, no hopes could be founded on this.

The Italians made a desperate stand at Takrouna, says the correspondent with the Eighth Army. They surrendered only after they ran out of ammunition. They were the finest type of Italian soldier the Eighth Army has encountered. Takrouna Hill dominates the whole plain north of Enfidaville and so it is a place of great tactical importance.

In the Western sector of the Eighth Army's ten-mile front German panzer grenadiers have been making bayonet attacks, but have been met with equal ferocity by British infantry. In Thursday's great air battle when thirty-one transport planes were shot down, the South African Air Force greatly distinguished itself.

General Giraud has returned from the fighting front, says The Times' Algiers correspondent, to consider General de Gaulle's memorandum. For ordinary Frenchmen the differences between the two generals do not count in comparison with the liberation and rehabilitation of France. He demanded political unity now, as military unity has already been achieved on the battlefront, and he does not understand why personal feelings of the two leaders should be allowed to stand in the way of a working agreement for victory.

When the day comes that the French people are free to decide their own political future they will not be bound by documents, provisional governments or councils of empire. The truth is at the moment the bulk of the French people everywhere feel that present differences are utterly irrelevant in the face of the present emergency and need for uttermost prosecution of the war.

If the French forces do not enter Tunis under one banner, says The Times correspondent, then French

Attacking Nazi Forces Flung Back by Russians

Battalion of German Infantry Wiped Out In Renewed Activity South of Leningrad

LONDON, April 26 (CP).—Russian troops flung back a numerically superior German attack force, annihilating about 800 of the enemy, in a resurgence of activity today on the northwestern front south of Leningrad, Moscow announced tonight.

The Nazi thrust carried Soviet forward elements back into a populated place, but an immediate counter-attack threw back the German forces before they had time to consolidate their new position, said the midnight war communique, recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor. About a battalion of German infantry was wiped out.

In the important Sevsk area northwest of Kursk, Russian units also repelled attacks of enemy infantry, killing eighty German officers and men. In the Kuban valley, where German forces have tried to extend their bridgehead around Novorossisk, activity was limited to exchanges of gunfire.

Russian airmen destroyed a total of seventeen enemy planes, destroyed or damaged about forty trucks carrying troops and supplies, blew up two ammunition dumps, smashed a German train, and sank a transport and a trawler in the Barents Sea.

RUSSIAN AIRMEN TAKE THEIR TOLL

The Russian airmen ran up their highest toll on the Western front, presumably in the Smolensk area, by destroying eight aircraft in raids on enemy airdromes and knocking down three in air combats.

On the same front, more than 300 Germans were killed and four artillery and five mortar batteries silenced by Russian artillery, mortar batteries and snipers. The noon communique, reported seventy Germans killed in a light engagement on this front and 100 more on the Donets River line.

Five enemy aircraft also were sent

R.A.F. Planes Raid Germany

LONDON, April 27 (Tuesday) (CP).—R.A.F. bombers attacked targets in Germany last night, it was learned authoritatively today.

The specific objective nor the weight of the attack, which followed up a series of daylight assaults by British bombers on railway targets in both Germany and France, were not known.

The last R.A.F. night raid on Germany was carried out Saturday night, when targets in the western part of the Reich were attacked. That raid was the first British night aerial activity since the massive assault on Stettin, Rostock and Berlin the previous Thursday night.

In daylight raids yesterday speedy Mosquito bombers struck at a railway centre in Northwest Germany, another in the Rhineland and a third in France, near the Loire River. All the planes returned.

BULLETINS

MAJOR MOVE PENDING

NEW YORK, April 26 (CP).—The Vichy radio said tonight that a major move of Allied sea and air forces is taking place at Gibraltar, according to a B.B.C. broadcast picked up here by the C.B.S.

RIOTS IN SWEDEN

LONDON, April 27 (Tuesday) (CP).—Riots broke out in two Swedish towns when local Nazi groups attempted to hold meetings, and several persons were injured, the Swedish radio reported today in a broadcast heard by the Ministry of Information. Police with drawn sabres dispersed a crowd estimated at 2,000 who booed and threw stones as about fifty Nazis met at Uppsala Heights, the broadcast said.

All-Canadian Crew Breaks Up

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP).—Air Force Headquarters said tonight in a dispatch from Malta that an all-R.C.A.F. crew of an R.A.F. torpedo-bomber squadron is breaking up, as its American pilot is transferring to the United States Army Air Force and its five Canadians are dispersing to other theatres of war.

The skipper is Warren Sutton, of Gibsland, La., just recently promoted to the rank of flight lieutenant. One of the wireless operator-air gunners is Sgt. J. R. Laughlin, of Victoria.

HUGE ANTIMONY DEPOSIT

MEXICO CITY, April 26 (AP).—Sources close to the National Economy Ministry reported today that one of the largest antimony deposits in the world, with the vein of ore more than a mile long, had been discovered in a Southern Mexican state.

Beer Wanted For Navy Men

VANCOUVER, April 26 (CP).—A six-man committee to prepare a special report on the beer shortage as it affects seamen was appointed today at the annual convention of the Navy League of Canada after R. A. Major, of Halifax, declared a search for other liquor was leading mariners into "dives."

"There are men of forty-three nations coming into eastern coast ports," Mr. Major said, "and what Government has the right to legislate for them, and tell them what they shall or shall not drink?

"It means they are getting hold of lemon extract now, and going off into the some 500 dives in the city, where they are robbed, laid out, and often miss their ships. If there was enough beer to go around, the men could be served comfortably and decently by Navy League clubs."

HEADS DELEGATION

LONDON, April 27 (Tuesday) (CP).—Richard K. Law, Parliamentary Undersecretary of State for the Foreign Office, today was appointed head of the United Kingdom delegation to the food conference opening on May 18 at Hot Springs, Va. Law now is attending the refugee conference in Hamilton, Bermuda.

Victoria Girl Is Graduate at Cadet Centre in England

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 26 (CP).—History was established at this Canadian training school when ten members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps recently graduated from an officer cadet training unit as second lieutenants. They were the first batch to attend an O.C.T.U. since Canadian girls in uniforms came overseas.

The graduates included Ruby M. J. Anderson, Edmonton; Isabel Chevrier, Norwood, Man.; Mary Faith Cornwall, Victoria; Joyce Jellett, Vancouver.

Allies Seize Vital Heights In Three Main Sectors and Threaten Whole Enemy Line

Report "Very Hard Fighting Against Very Hard Opposition"

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 26 (CP).—After hacking down Axis defences in hard fighting, Allied forces have seized important heights on each of the three main sectors of the Tunisian front, and in the central area posed critical threats of smashing through to the Tunisian plain for a surge that would crumple all the enemy's mountain lines.

French troops drove to within nearly three miles of Pont du Fahs on the southern front, and on the central sector east of Goubellat, thirty miles from Tunis, British First Army armor was reported clashing in a finish fight against all the tanks that the German Command could muster, with heavy losses already inflicted on the Germans.

German troops fell back yesterday before the American attack to the North, with advanced elements of the Second Army Corps coming within three miles east of Sidi N'Sir, and only some ten miles southwest of Mateur, rail and highway junction between Tunis and Bizerte.

The French striking at Pont du Fahs have advanced twelve and a half miles in thirty-six hours of fighting, the French communique said, and east of the Kebir Dam have captured the strong position of Djebel Chirich.

Allied infantry seized the fortified hill of Sidi Marrou, six miles east of Bou Arada, and repelled enemy counter-attacks.

IMPROVEMENT ALL ALONG THE LINE

A military spokesman declared there was "general improvement in all our positions all along the line" yesterday despite "very hard fighting against very hard opposition."

The Axis forces were clinging desperately to their mountain positions, and beginning to show signs of exhaustion in the face of the incessant Allied land and air attack maintained for four days.

The Allied advance was eating into their defences at the rate of two to three miles a day, and Allied spokesmen said the Axis loss of strategic hills overlooking the plain along which the Pont du Fahs-Tunis road runs could have been avoided if they had had reserves to throw into the battle.

If German lines give way at that point, they said, letting Allied armor onto that plain, Von Arnim will have to withdraw all his forces to new positions before Tunis—if he can.

The Algiers radio said in a broadcast recorded by The Associated

Fresh Aid Given by Airplanes

Attacks Made In New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 27 (Tuesday) (CP). — Allied ground troops who hold ridge-top positions overlooking the Japanese-occupied village and airstrip of Mubo, New Guinea, were given a fresh burst of aerial support Monday by a formation of Boston attack planes.

The raiders twice bombed and strafed the area, which is on the approaches to the vital Japanese Huon Gulf bases of Lae and Salamaua.

The Bostons centred their attacks upon a hill one and a quarter miles northeast of Mubo, where a small force of Japanese is entrenched.

Due to extremely stormy weather, lasting for several days, air activity throughout the sector northeast of Australia was on a small scale and in the northwest was limited to reconnaissance.

A United States heavy bomber bombed and strafed Gasmata, on the southern tip of New Britain, destroying a wireless tower and a building.

The raider then strafed two other New Britain posts, Ubili and Arawe.

ICING GIVES PILOTS TROUBLE

A delayed report disclosed that a single heavy bomber attacked the airdrome at Finschhafen, on New Guinea's Huon Peninsula, Sunday. The pilots had icing trouble, a rare experience in the tropics.

One plane even reported encountering a heavy snowstorm over the New Guinea mountains.

Ground activity has been limited to patrol activity virtually ever since the end of the Allied conquest of the Papuan Peninsula in New Guinea. In addition to hills around Mubo, Allied forces, principally Australian, also hold the track from Mubo to Wau, from which the Japanese were driven early this year.

Mubo is fifteen miles southwest of Salamaua in an area where Allied ground forces have been pushing upward toward Japan's Huon Gulf bases.

In other aerial action, the Allies raided Ubili, Arawe and Gasmata, New Britain, and Finschhafen, New Guinea.

"Our attack planes bombed and strafed enemy positions in support of our ground troops," the communique said.

It did not elaborate as to whether there had been any more ground action similar to that of April 16 when Allied advance patrols annihilated a Japanese outpost of twenty men only six air miles south of Salamaua.

Moslem League Backs Warning

NEW DELHI, April 26 (CP).—The Moslem League approved unanimously tonight a resolution warning Britain of "strife and bloodshed" if it is forced into a federation with the Hindus, religious and political opponents of the Moslems, outnumbering the Moslems three to one.

The resolution, approved at the final session of the league's thirtieth annual convention, also condemned the British Government for failure to concede to a pakistan—a separate state.

The subjects committee of the league, in adopting the resolution earlier, expressed fear that Britain would attempt to impose a federation with the Hindus in an effort to break the political deadlock in India.

Tremendous applause followed a declaration by Abdul Hamid Khan, president of the Moslem League in Madras, that the resolution represents an "end of negotiation."

This opinion presumably had the sanction of Mohamed Ali Jinnah, the league president. Abdul Hamid's remark closely paraphrases a previous statement by All-India Congress Leader Mohandas K. Gandhi that "there is no more room for negotiation."

READY FOR GAS

SOMEWHERE IN EUROPE, April 26 (AP).—Germany has begun an intensive educational campaign on defence against poison gas, it was learned today. Defence practices have been underway for the last six weeks throughout the Reich, these reports said, and every suitable factory is turning out large quantities of new gas masks and other protective apparatus.

Ford Plant Strike Ends

Vote Sends 17,500 Men Back to Work

WINDSOR, Ont., April 26 (CP).—The work stoppage at the giant Ford Motor plants here and in subsidiary industries ended today with all plants back on normal operations. A total of 17,500 workers had been affected by the three-day shutdown.

The Ford workers returned to work this morning following a decision reached at a mass meeting Sunday. Production was also resumed this morning at the Essex Wire Corporation, the Canadian Bridge Company and the Auto Specialties Manufacturing Company. At the Gotfredson truck plant the complete staff was back at noon, the company not having had sufficient notice to resume full operations on the first shift today.

Five thousand members of Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) decided at a meeting here Sunday to go back to work, starting with the midnight shift, and submit a labor dispute, which caused the closure, to arbitration.

The union claimed the company had started a lockout, whereas the company charged the employees with a breach of discipline and the union with countermanding of instructions.

Union and company officials prepared to start the arbitration proceeds today, with Louis Fine, Toronto, chief conciliation officer of the Ontario Department of Labor in charge.

Meatless Tuesdays To Start on May 4

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP).—"Meatless Tuesdays" will start in all Canadian public eating places on Tuesday, May 4, the Prices' Board announced today. The ban on meat, part of Canada's meat rationing programme, will apply each week from midnight Monday to midnight Tuesday.

Commencing May 4, no meat may be served in restaurants, hotels or institutions on Tuesdays. "Meat" is described in the board's announcement as "any edible product from cattle, calves, sheep, lamb and hogs." Milk and milk products are exempt and fish and fowl may be served. The only form in which meat may be served will be in soups or meat extracts.

John Bracken Given Rousing Reception by Canadian Club

Rising to address an overflow meeting of the Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday noon, John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, was accorded a reception such as few speakers have had here.

It was Mr. Bracken's second appearance in the same room within four hours, the first being the occasion of his address at 8:15 a.m. to Victory Loan workers, who likewise filled the great room to overflowing, as it filled to capacity for the third time at a public reception to Mr. and Mrs. Bracken at 8:30 last night.

Rev. George Biddle, newly-elected president of the Canadian Club, also received an ovation upon his first public appearance since taking over the leadership of the club. Thanking the audience, Mr. Biddle called quickly upon Hon. John Hart, Premier of British Columbia, to present Mr. Bracken. Quickly, too, and wittily, Mr. Hart spoke of Mr. Bracken as being a great Canadian, a fine administrator, and, above all, "a successful coalitionist."

Among those at the head table were:

CANADA'S OUTPOST ON THE PACIFIC

First complimenting Victoria, Vancouver Island and the province as a whole, Mr. Bracken said:

"It is a particular pleasure to visit Victoria. I have often been here in past years and have always taken away pleasant memories of this Summer land of Canada.

"This province, and particularly this Island, is blessed with a most welcome climate at this time of the year, hospitable people at all times, and, if I am any judge, it has the promise of a wonderful future.

"Canada is a vast country and you are far removed from the centre of Government. This makes it more difficult for your voice to be heard and more important that you take great care to see that your thoughts and your hopes are made known to your fellow Canadians.

"Canada is one of the nations of

Winning Teamwork

THE British Eighth Army drove the Axis from El Alamein to Tripoli by means of superior leadership, unremitting preparations, and a singing teamwork that had in it the clear will to victory. Now those factors are turned to a greater task, to preparation for the Battle of Europe. When the United Nations move it will be as one man; grim, purposeful, and unrelenting, until the world has been ridden of its darkest plague. There are—there can be—no sidelines in this conflict. Here on the home front our will towards victory is undoubted, but it is our united teamwork that will count. Our task now is to buy bonds, and to keep on buying them while we have a dollar in hand or in prospepct. Haligonians have taken their coats off to it. Victorians must roll up their sleeves! Let us make it a fighting centenary, one of which in 100 years' time men may be proud.

Big Subscriptions to Loan

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP).—As Canada's Fourth Victory Loan campaign got under way today with a minimum objective of $1,100,000,000, the first of the great running trades organizations to subscribe—the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen—invested $525,000.

Another notable subscription today was $600,000 from the Workmen's Compensation Board of New Brunswick. This was in addition to a $1,000,000 investment of Government funds announced earlier.

United Grain Growers, Ltd., and Subsidiary Companies, of Winnipeg, entered a subscription of $600,000. From Winnipeg also came $100,000 from the St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Co., and $125,000 from Western Steel Products Corp., Ltd.

Official opening of the campaign in Winnipeg was marked by a parade of Canadian paratroopers and men from the Royal Canadian Navy. Addresses were delivered by civic and other dignitaries and officials of the National War Finance Committee.

Members of the First Canadian Parachute Battalion, now on a Canada-wide tour to stimulate Victory Bond sales, paraded tonight in their distinctive khaki battle-dress, brown jump boots and steel helmets. The paratroopers later will visit Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal.

BONDS AS GIFTS FOR TRIPLETS

In Fort William, a highlight of the day's activity centred around the recent birth of the Sebilling triplets—the city's first triplets. Mayor Anderson officially opened the loan with the announcement that the first purchase would be the gift of a bond for each of the babies, contributed by the Fort William Public Utilities Commission.

Fort William canvassers joined hands with their Fellow workers from the sister city of Port Arthur, at a breakfast event launching the campaign with Munitions Minister Howe attending.

Authority has been granted for the army to co-operate as fully as possible with local National War Finance committees, provided op-

Two Injured in Accident Here

Joseph McKay and his wife Madeline were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital shortly before midnight last night with serious injuries following an accident at the intersection of Raynor Avenue and Craigflower Road.

McKay and his wife were occupants of a light delivery truck that collided with a Number 6 street car at 11:30 o'clock. The truck, police reported, was carried a considerable distance and was almost completely demolished. McKay sustained head injuries and Mrs. McKay's injuries had not been determined at an early hour this morning.

Bracken Welcomed

the Pacific. As such, Canada is vitally interested in everything that takes place on that ocean and around its shores. This is true not only when war is waging, but also in times of peace. British Columbia is Canada's outpost on the Pacific, and this Island is the front door, for the people of British Columbia represent Canada on the Pacific and Canadians of other provinces look to you for leadership in the solution of problems having to do with that ocean.

"You are in Canada's front line in the war with Japan and must have the wholehearted support of all other Canadians in facing the perils brought by war. And when peace comes, your views on certain domestic questions of an international character must also receive the support of the nation, and, certainly, they will receive mine."

Touching upon the recent celebration of Victoria's centenary, Mr. Bracken continued:

"What a panorama of economic history this period of 100 years has shown, with its change and development, its progress and retrogression, its hopes and despair, its booms and depressions, its droughts and its bumper crops, its wars and its alleged peace! What an age of experience for Canada to look back upon! What a laboratory of social and economic experiment to draw upon in the shaping of the Canada of tomorrow!

"The fact is that we are passing through one of the most interesting periods in all history. It is also the most critical, and at the same time the most challenging period of all time. No generation ever witnessed such a conquest of the physical forces around us as we have witnessed. No democratic society in recent centuries has had a greater threat to its continuance, and no generation since humanity was born has had a greater responsibility left upon its shoulders.

"Our Christian democracy is at one of the great crossroads of its history. Our economic society for the first time is knocking at the portals of an era of abundance, and upon us has been left a triple task of major proportions.

"First, a war to win! Second, a peace to make enduring! Third, a world to make more acceptable to the common people!"

CANADA IN NEED OF NATIONAL OBJECTIVES

Many times, said Mr. Bracken, when imminent danger seemingly had passed and there was no apparent external threat to our political existence, "we fell back again into the position of a state without direction or moral purpose, each individual and each sectional or pressure group nursing his or its individual desires.

"We lost the incentive to pursue national objectives that, in peacetime as in war, ought to be the pride and purpose of a modern state. It must be clear that if we in all parts of Canada are to make ourselves more than a collection of individuals with no purpose to our national existence, we must shake ourselves loose from the complacency of bygone days.

"We, in this the greatest era of scientific, mechanical and economic progress the human family has ever experienced, should put ourselves in the position of accomplishing for Canada a positive programme of sane and rational progress. If we do this, we must have national objectives of a character that will challenge the support of our people, that will deserve their respect, that will stand up under their most critical analysis and command their militant support.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES ENTAIL RESPONSIBILITIES

"In the last two or three decades," Mr. Bracken went on, "we talked a good deal of our rights and privileges in this country, but we talked much less about our responsibilities and obligations. Until this war began, indifference and complacency were the cardinal sins of the electors as well as of governments in most democracies of the world.

"And now has come a rude shock to our complacency, the most destructive war of all time. Now we see more clearly that we must consciously determine what it is we wish to achieve, and then set about achieving it if we are to escape the consequences of a rising tide of protest and make ourselves worthy of our collective responsibility as a modern state.

"The question is sometimes discussed, 'Is Canada a Nation?'—and what a variety of answers one hears! What, after all, is a nation? Is it a geographic unit on a map? Is it a political unit in our statute books? Of is it a united people with conscious objectives for themselves as between themselves, and between themselves and other nations? Judged by the first two of these, Canada is a nation. Judged by the third, I shall leave it to each of you to answer for himself.

DEMOCRACY CANNOT LIVE WITH NAZISM

Mr. Bracken rejected the Prussian doctrine of the inevitability of war until the German race dominates the world. "But," said he, "Canada, the Commonwealth and the Anglo-Saxon world must achieve unity and national objectives more worthy than we have had in the past, if some form of totalitarianism is not to fasten itself upon us and upon the world."

Saying that realistic steps must be taken to see that the war "stays won," Mr. Bracken offered three proposals in behalf of an enduring peace:

(1) An effective system of international collective security.

(2) An international police force.

(3) Restoration of international trade.

A collective security pact, he said, would enable small nations to go about their affairs in peace. An international police force would protect the world against surprise attacks and disruption of the orderly pursuits of man. Restoration of international trade would not only lessen the prospect of future war, but with the development of science and the use of mechanized equipment, make possible the production of material goods on a scale such as the world has never before known, Mr. Bracken believed.

ENTERPRISE AND WORK BETTER THAN THE DOLE

"We must lay the base for an era of social and economic justice for the common man," Mr. Bracken continued. "That may sound like a large order, but we shall either attempt it seriously or we shall not. In any case, the responsibility we cannot shelve.

"We must organize our society so that we can assure to every man the right to earn his own living. That means the right to have a job, a fair reward for his work, and to have equality of opportunity with others to make the most of his life.

"We didn't give this assurance in the depression of the 'thirties.' The taxpayers did not think they could afford it, and governments that thought otherwise didn't remain governments. Now, both know that jobs are cheaper in the long run than the dole. There is nothing quite so vital to the state as the spirit of enterprise and work. Unless there is maximum production, there cannot be maximum prosperity.

WISE CONSERVATION OF NATURAL RESOURCES

"But we must conserve the physical resources on which our prosperity is based. This generation is enjoying returns from the exploitation of resources which cannot be replaced. Canada is now making wasteful drafts upon the capital value of her forests and upon her birthright in the fertility of the soil. Our problem is to get the maximum returns from our resources while at the same time retaining enough of their basic values to assure a maximum perpetual, annual return."

Reforestation, scientific treatment of the soil and use of much material hitherto regarded as waste were among the proposals made in this connection.

Time forbade extended reference to agriculture, education, public health and other subjects which Mr. Bracken mentioned briefly as requiring thoughtful consideration in the formulation of a well co-ordinated plan for the well being of Canada as a whole.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bracken's address, Rev. George Biddle, president of the Canadian Club, thanked the Gyro Club, whose members had come in as a body to hear Mr. Bracken. Mr. Biddle also called upon Mrs. Bracken to rise. She was acclaimed tumultuously.

Moscow Breaks

"without reference to the merits in the matter of differences between these two Governments and without knowing as yet the full facts." Polish Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski talked with Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles but told newspaper men he had not received official confirmation of Russia's move and could not comment.

The Polish-Russian break had been brewing for months. Last February Moscow sharply told foreign commentators that certain Eastern European areas incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1939-40 were there to stay. Late in February the Polish Government declared it considered Poland's rightful borders to be those within which its army in September, 1939, bore alone the whole weight of German aggression.

SAYS DO NOT WANT TO RETURN

Moscow countered by asserting, through an article written by Alexander Korneichuk, Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs, that the populations incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1939 had no desire to return to Polish rule and that "only a hopeless fool can believe these people would wish to be ruled by Polish gentry again."

Early in March a new complication entered the picture when a Jewish Socialist labor organization in the United States published a protest against the Soviet execution of two Polish labor leaders to whom the State Department had offered asylum in the United States. The Soviet Embassy here replied that the two men, Henryk Erlich and Victor Alty, had been executed as spies and subversive agents who urged Russian troops not to fight against the Germans.

On April 1 Bishop Josef Gawlina, chief of the chaplains of the Polish armed forces, issued a statement through the National Catholic Welfare Conference alleging that fully 400,000 Polish children "snatched from their homes" and transported into Soviet Russia in 1939-40 had "perished from hunger and exposure."

MINISTER TELLS OF EVENTS

TORONTO, April 26 (CP).—Victor Podoski, Polish Minister to Canada, in the first comment by a Polish official on the severing of diplomatic relations with the Polish Government in London by Russia, tonight told in an interview of events leading up to the break in relations.

"When the Germans announced they had found graves near Smolensk containing the bodies of Polish officers," Mr. Podoski said, "we at once, in order to pin down the German claims, applied to the International Red Cross for an independent investigation to disprove the German accusation. If the Soviet Government had wanted to co-operate, they should have themselves asked for an investigation. Unfortunately, they did not do so."

Mr. Podoski released for publication an official Polish communication from Lt.-Gen. Marjan Kukiel at London regarding the missing Polish officers.

It follows:

"On September 27, 1940, the official organ of the Red Army, The Red Star, reported that during the fighting after September 17, 1939, some 181,000 Polish prisoners of war had been taken by the Soviets, among them about 10,000 Polish officers and reserve officers.

THREE PRISONERS' CAMPS SET UP

"According to information in the possession of the Polish Government, three large war prisoners' camps were set up on Soviet territory in November, 1939, at Kozielsk, east of Smolensk; at Starobielsk, near Kharkov, and at Ostas, Zkewo, near Kalinin. In the latter, Polish police and military police were confined.

"At the beginning of 1940, the camp authorities informed the prisoners in all three camps that the camps would be closed shortly and they would be able to return home to their families.

"At that time, there were in the Kozielsk camp 5,000 prisoners, among them 4,500 officers; in the Starobielsk camp 3,920 prisoners, 100 of them civilians and the rest officers, among them nearly 400 medical officers; in the Ostaszkowo camp 6,750 prisoners, among them 380 officers.

"Only about 400 persons from all three camps were deported in June, 1940, to Griazowiec, Wologda and Oblast.

"When, after the conclusion of the Polish-Soviety treaty of July 13, 1941, and the signing of the military agreement of August, 1941, the Polish Government proceeded to form a Polish army in the U.S.S.R., it was to be expected that the officers from the camps mentioned above would form the higher and lower cadres of command in that army. At the end of August, 1941, a group of Polish officers from Griazowiec arrived at Buzaluk, where Polish units were, but not one of the officers deported in a different direction from Kozielsk, from Starobielsk or from Ostaszkowo appeared there.

ABOUT 8,300 OFFICERS MISSING

"In all, therefore, about 8,300 officers were missing, apart from 7,000 others such as non-commissioned officers, soldiers, civilians, who were there in those camps at the time of their liquidation.

"On December 3, 1941, General Sikorski during his visit to Moscow also intervened in conversation with Stalin concerning the release of all Polish prisoners of war and, in view of the fact that the lists had not been provided, handed Stalin on that occasion an incomplete list containing names of 3,842 Polish officers made out by their fellow prisoners.

"Stalin assured Sikorski that his amnesty was of a general nature and affected both military and civil persons and that the Soviet Government had released all Polish officers. An additional list of 800 officers was handed to Stalin by General Anders on March 18, 1942, but not one of the officers mentioned in those lists has been sent back to the Polish Army.

"We have become accustomed to the lies of German propaganda and understand the purpose of its recent revelations, but in view of the detailed information given by the Germans concerning the finding of the bodies of many thousands of Polish officers near Smolensk and the categorical declaration that they were murdered by the Soviets in the Spring of 1940, the necessity has arisen that the mass graves which have been discovered should be investigated and facts verified by a proper international body, such as the authorities of the International Red Cross.

"The Polish Government is approaching that institution with a view to their sending a delegation to the place where the Polish prisoners of war are said to have been massacred."

names for labor representation on the investigatory panel.

The Labor Board arranged to select a panel without benefit of a nomination from Lewis, scheduling a preliminary meeting of the panel for tomorrow and ordered hearings Wednesday.

The board designated Morris Llewellyn Cooke, Philadelphia management engineer, as chairman and public member of the panel.

The employer representative is Walter White, assistant to the chairman of the business advisory council, Department of Commerce. Named to represent labor was David B. Robertson, of Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, an independent union.

Bracken Accorded Warm Welcome by Victorians

JOHN Bracken will be in Victoria again on Thursday, but only for breakfast, an inspection of Queen Alexandra Solarium, on to Duncan, Nanaimo and Courtenay. Returning to Nanaimo, Mr. Bracken will go by boat to Vancouver, where, accompanied by Howard Green, M.P., he will visit the Kootenays.

Such was the immediate schedule as announced last night prior to his departure on the midnight boat, following a farewell gathering in the Empress Hotel ballroom, where Mr Bracken spoke publicly for the third time in a busy day, which included a dinner at the Union Club and conferences with local leaders and members of the Progressive Conservative party.

Gordon Cameron presided at last night's meeting. Introducing the speaker, Hon. Herbert Anscomb paid high tribute to Mr. Bracken, as did Hon. R. L. Maitland, who moved the vote of thanks. Mr. Bracken's remarks were brief and in a vein similar to those expressed before the Canadian Club luncheon at noon.

Explaining that his present trip was not in the nature of a political tour, Mr. Bracken stated that discussion of purely political or administrative issues would have to [illegible] he said, vitally concerned over the success of the Victory Loan campaign, and apart from that the primary purpose of this trip was simply to see the country and meet personally on a "man-to-man" basis as many as possible of those whose interest was in Canada, irrespective of party lines.

Seated on the platform were Gordon Cameron, chairman; Mrs. C. H. Smith, president, Women's Conservative Association; Brig.-General Sutherland Brown, Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Hon. R. L. Maitland, Walter Carson, M.P.P., Sinclair Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Bracken.

Two musical numbers were rendered by Gnr. Robey and Mrs. Ridgeway, who were accompanied by Cecil Heaton. Upon conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Bracken again met personally a large number of the audience, many of whom he had known previously and recalled clearly.

Prior to stepping aboard the Princess Charlotte at midnight, Mr. Bracken expressed his thanks for the reception accorded him in Victoria. "Your people," he said, "have been exceedingly kind and hospitable and I hope it will be not too long before we return for a longer visit."

"Indeed, yes," said Mrs. Bracken, "it has been wonderful." Adding greatly to the pleasure of their stay, Mr. and Mrs. Bracken's son, [illegible] Bruce Bracken, R.C.N.V.R., arrived yesterday afternoon on leave from Halifax, in time for a brief word with his parents before they resumed their tour of British Columbia.

down in a ten-minute dogfight in the Kuban area of the Northern Caucasus.

German forces there have been halted by heavy losses in their recent counter-attacks. The midnight war bulletin credited Russian snipers with killing seventy-nine Germans in the last two weeks in this region and another guerrilla was credited with thirty-six.

The midnight communique said that a German troop train was derailed, the locomotive and fourteen cars being smashed, when it struck mines placed by a guerrilla detachment in the Zhitomir region of the Ukraine. Another guerrilla unit in the same area ambushed another train, killing nineteen guards and capturing the train's war freight.

Canada's Honor Roll

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP).—The Canadian (Active) Army, in its 296th overseas casualty list of the war, containing fourteen names, tonight named eight men of the Manitoba Regiment as missing.

Defence headquarters said these men fought with the Canadian force sent to Hongkong in the Autumn in 1941. It was added that no word had been received from the Japanese Government concerning these men since the fall of that Far Eastern British colony on December 25, 1941, and consequently for official purposes they were considered as missing.

In its 295th overseas casualty list of the war, issued late Sunday and containing thirteen names, the army reported nine men died, three dangerously ill and one seriously ill.

Defence headquarters said none of these casualties were connected with any specific operation.

"War has at all times called for the fortitude of women..."

We, no less than men, have real and vital work to do."

On Armistice Day, 1939, Queen Elizabeth broadcast these words to a world newly plunged into war.

It was a call to women to put all their courage of mind and heart, all their strength and endurance, at the service of their country in its hour of need. Women of Canada heard . . . and answered.

Every Canadian woman is in a very real sense a warrior working for victory. Whether she serves in the armed forces, in the front lines of industrial production, or taking care of home and family . . . her efforts bring closer the day of victory.

Once again Canadian women are making sure that every dollar is a fighting dollar. By rigorous self-denial now . . . in order to supply the overwhelming numbers of tanks and guns, ships and planes that will mean the margin of victory for our fighting forces . . . all of us can help to get the job done that much quicker. And when victory is won, Victory Bond savings will enable you to enjoy all the things which are not now available.

This time buy two ways. First, with cash on hand. Second, on the 6-month installment plan, either through your bank or employer. In this way you will be doing YOUR share in helping to put Canada's FOURTH VICTORY LOAN, with an objective of One-Billion-One, over the top!

HOW TO BUY

THE TASK BEFORE US

The task before Victoria and Vancouver Island communities in the Fourth Victory Loan drive is a stiff one, and only by willing co-operation can it be achieved. Generally speaking, the quotas desired by way of investment from each community have been raised by from 30 or 40 per cent. Vancouver Island as a whole is asked to find $9,500,000, compared with actual subscriptions of $6,914,250 in the Third Victory Loan. But, if everyone will work at it, that can be done.

Similarly, Victoria City's quota is now $4,100,000, compared with subscriptions of $2,889,350 in the last loan; Saanich, $1,075,000 ($812,250); Oak Bay, $1,105,000 ($835,000); Esquimalt, $800,000 ($571,950); Duncan, $680,000 ($486,750); Courtenay, $406,000 ($325,100); Nanaimo, $714,000 ($549,000); and Alberni, $620,000 ($443,950). It is quite obvious from this comparison that more people will have to take a part in the loan, and that their individual subscriptions will need to be the best that they can achieve.

The emphasis, then, this time is on interesting everybody in the loan, and as many people in each household as are earning or otherwise in a position to subscribe. The cause is known, and requires no enlargement. The Fourth Victory Loan is a tool in the battle of freedom itself. The investment is the safest that the world can anywhere produce. Money that can be saved by the people now will be a real and satisfying cushion against postwar problems, when they come. Meanwhile, a Dominion of Canada Bond is always negotiable. Should the necessity arise, it can be turned into cash, and that on demand. Beyond all is the though that this is part of our fight for freedom, and a part that can and should be played by almost all.

WANING PARLIAMENTARY AUTHORITY

The question of the declining power of Parliament, and the apathetic way in which members subscribe to this happening, is one that is receiving insufficient attention for the public. The apathy referred to has been illustrated within recent days. Yesterday, a week ago, there were 169 of the members of the House of Commons absent from their seats. These, or the majority of them, had gone home for the Easter recess although Parliament was still in session. The Toronto Globe and Mail says that, "the sorry fact behind this mass absenteeism is not the neglect of the people's business but the tacit admission that sitting in Parliament has become a waste of time. It is a confession of impotence."

Again and again attention has been called to the fact that the Government is more and more taking over functions that are inherent in Parliament. The functions, above all others, that belong to the elected representatives of the people are the voting of moneys and the imposition of taxation. Parliament has only just learned, for instance, that an "agency of the Crown," the Treasury Board, has usurped taxing powers. Those who recall the history of parliamentary government know the long and arduous period during this right had to be contested before it was wrested from the Crown. In commenting on the discovery which Parliament has now made, The Globe and Mail says:

"The usurpation goes back to 1940. No one but the Minister of Finance, who proposed to make it even more absolute, seemed to know it had occurred. In excuse of ignorance, members protested that bills pass so fast they cannot keep track of them. That is true, but why? Because the business of the House is repeatedly buried under the idle conversation of the members. Instead of being debated intelligently, instead of being carefully examined by Parliament, they are stored up behind a dam of oratory until there is only time to rush them through, often with scarcely a word of explanation. By present practice Parliament could vote the bill to hang itself and know nothing about it. In effect that is what it is doing. The members of Parliament have talked themselves and the institution of parliamentary debate into disrepute. They will not improve their position by more talk or by going home. The cure lies in the proposals of a few of their number who have the courage to risk the Prime Minister's disfavor and demand reform in parliamentary procedure. Enforcement of the cure is in the hands of the members themselves. They have the courage to enforce it, or, they have not. If they haven't then, perhaps, it is best that they stay home, but do so honorably, and make way for some others who have the courage."

A SERIOUS OMISSION

No claim can be made for the completeness of Canada's postwar re-establishment plans while a first requirement—adequate hospital accommodation—is left wide open. In drawing attention to this matter now, while there still is time, veterans', municipal and other agencies here are performing a useful service to all. It is an obvious, visible need. Here on Vancouver Island the matter presses, and from causes that can be clearly stated and examined. Let us review a few of them.

As this is being written, some veterans gassed or wounded twenty-eight years ago and who still require intermittent hospital care, are being treated at both of Victoria's civilian hospitals. Other veterans, notably amputation cases, are being sent eighty miles to the Shaughnessy Military Hospital, on the Mainland, for treatment, because the Crown has established no provision here in more than a quarter of a century. On top of this, provision is needed for men discharged during the progress of this war, and returning now to their homes on Vancouver Island, with its 150,000 souls. Where are these men to go? Where are hundreds of others to go who must be cared for and adequately treated in this area at the conclusion of hostilities?

The basic fact is, and this is true of all British Columbia, civilian hospital accommodation in its present buildings is taxed to overflowing. The swift influx of a wartime movement in workers and other populations has done that. The Provincial Government has had report after report from the British Columbia Hospitals' Association showing the need for more buildings, more beds, more laboratory and special services, to care for the needs of the existing civilian population. The immediate need in buildings alone is beyond $2,000,000, and the total need—still for civilian uses—is probably ten times as great again. Where, then, are the veterans to go?

Again, in so far as Vancouver Island is concerned, the Dominion has shown little if any realization of what is coming. Small, local hospitals have been built at today's training centres, separately for each of the three armed services. At one or two points, existing larger buildings have been taken over, to be turned into hospitals; although these buildings are far removed from all established hospitals, physicians, nurses and special facilities. The Army, the Navy and the Air Force seem to be operating along separate, and totally uncorrelated, roads in this matter. Nothing that the people can recognize as truly permanent has been done on Vancouver Island after three and a half years of war. Such provision as has been made has been sporadic, and totally inadequate in the light of inevitable postwar needs. Nor can one of these facts be wished, or charmed, away.

Appalling misery will be the result unless this condition is cured. We suggest in all earnestness that now is the time for a clear-visioned survey of hospitalization on Vancouver Island—if not also throughout Canada. Wherever possible, the Dominion should strive to combine military, naval and air force hospitals into joint, permanent institutions. We believe, with regard to the known facts, that that can be done best in the closest and fullest possible association with existing civilian hospitals, using of their services, contributing to their upkeep, sharing in their many and highly specialized equipments—not in competition with, but in support of what others have done. As to the need, we will say now that it is crucial; and that any further delay will invite a condition of neglect, human waste and misery such as the people of Canada cannot, and will not, tolerate. What is required is action, and now. Those who will return have earned not the least, but our best!

A LUCRATIVE PRACTICE

One of the highest paid "employees" in the service of the Dominion Government is Dr. Aime Chartier, of Montreal. This fact was elicited by questions asked in Parliament by Mr. John Diefenbaker. In the past three fiscal years Dr. Chartier has been paid $90,184.40 for examination of Civil Servants under the Dominion Government Employees' Compensation Act and he is still owed some $2,500. For 1940-1941 he was paid $18,532.45; for 1941-1942, the payments were $19,495.25 for Government department employees and $13,831.70 for employees on defence projects; and for 1942-1943 he received $12,182.70 for Government department employees and $26,142.60 for employees engaged on defence projects. It is noted that "Federal Government employees do not come under the provincial compensation scheme but under the Government Employees Compensation Act. They may select their physician for examination. The Dominion Government pays $15 per examination."

This task, or those tasks, for which Dr. Chartier received the above remunerations do not constitute his exclusive work. The Government's claim is that he is not in its employ, that he is merely engaged from time to time "as an expert is assessing disabilities of Federal Government employees in the Province of Quebec." He has, therefore, a very lucrative part-time employment. The supposition is that while he personally is paid the money he does not benefit from it all, for as well as he own, it is the services of his clinic that are engaged. Technically speaking he may not be in the employ of the Government but the Administration is his paymaster for the part-time services he renders.

HOW IT WORKS

Recently the free world was circularized with news accounts, supposedly emanating from Sweden, which hinted at British parachute troops landing in Holland, in Denmark, and in Norway. The parachute troops were depicted as hiding in the interior, and making nightly forays against enemy works and communications. It seemed a plausible enough account. It was widely used in Canadian newspapers; and to some extent, at least, it was believed. What followed?

Using these very accounts, emanating from "Stockholm," the German military police staged faked raids in Europe; appeared suddenly in British uniforms, begging shelter, disguises and food. Where civilian populations complied, wholesale arrests followed, and those who had extended help to the Gestapo bullies in disguise were executed, after those parodies of trials which begin by stating that the defenders are guilty. In some instances, where aid could not be proved, "hostages" were taken. Men and women were shot.

That, of course, is fully consonant with Nazi policy. It is how a bully, momentarily in command of a subject people, would behave. But how about us? How is it that German propaganda accounts, especially designed to trap those who are friendly to us and fighting on the side of freedom, get circulation and credence in this land? It has happened before. It is not enough to say that "Stockholm" is a suspected news source, as are Paris, Berne and Islambul. Who carries such stories to this continent, and why?

THE LANDING

Here, on our native soil, we breathe once more.
The cock that crows, the smoke that curls, that sound
Of bells—those boys who in yon meadow-ground
In white-sleeved shirts are playing; and the roar
Of the waves breaking on the chalky shore—
All, all are English. Oft have I looked round
With joy in Kent's green vales; but never found
Myself so satisfied in heart before.
Europe is yet in bonds; but let that pass,
Thought for another moment. Thou art free,
My Country! and 'tis joy enough and pride
For one hour's perfect bliss, to tread the grass
Of England once again, and hear and see,
With such a dear Companion at my side.

—William Wordsworth.

THE WEEK

Western Front—In as strange an Easter as the world has known, the United Nations continued steady preparations for the big test to come this year. Their consciousness of growing strength was paralleled by a visible decline in the spirit of the enemy, attended by the collapse of the German counter-thrust on the Eastern front, further compression of the Axis holdout forces in one corner of Tunisia, and the pursuit of the main elements of the Italian fleet into its last home ports. There was again the cry of "martyrdom" in Germany, and gloomy speeches by enemy spokesmen, including Goering and Goebbels, the latter stating he could see no "end" to the war. Hitler's fifty-fourth birthday went by default. Undeceived by the flood of enemy propaganda, wherein Germany has quaintly become the "assailed," the United Nations pressed on with greater vigor. Mr. Churchill issued the second straight warning to Germany not to employ poison gas, or else she would suffer the consequences immediately at home. Church bells rang out in Great Britain, and it was not for invasion, but for Easter services. Australia and New Zealand celebrated Anzac Day, and Canada the second battle of Ypres, both with sober memories. Canadian, Australian and United States airmen and other troops landed in Great Britain from Canada after a crossing without incident.

The war in the air was carried to the enemy in nine successive nights, with a twelve-hour lull at midweek. Spezia in Italy, Berlin, Rostock and Stettin in Germany, Abbeville, Lorient, Boulogne, Cherbourg in France and Zeebrugge in Belgium were visited by major and minor raids. From the east, Russians bombed Tilsit in East Prussia, Koenigsberg, and points on the Gulf of Finland. Hard daylight air attacks swept the enemy-occupied coast from Norway to the south of France. British, United States and Russian air forces timed their raids to synchronize in an overall coverage of Germany. Some thirty-four British bombers were lost, out of hundreds that rode to the attacks. In mid-Channel there were several fighter clashes, in which enemy formations—considerably increased—were dispersed. The Luftwaffe rely on Great Britain was persistent, but scattered. Enemy machines were given a rough ride over the London area by ground defences, which enjoyed the workout. Some enemy bombs were dropped in Southeast Scotland, the West Midlands and along the south and southeast coasts of England; and a number of the raiding machines confined to light formations were shot down. The Admiralty announced the sinking of one Italian cruiser, a tanker, three supply and several other vessels in the Mediterranean by British submarines. One submarine, the Thunderbolt, was conceded overdue and missing. At the week-end, Japan admitted the execution of eight United States flyers who had taken part in the four-cities raid on Nippon a year ago. The executions were in contravention of the Geneva convention regarding safe conduct for prisoners of war. Washington pledged punishment of those responsible for the executions, and larger and heavier raids on Japan. Bond sales in the United States' $13,000,000,000 Victory Loan soared. Canada opened her Fourth Victory Loan drive, for $1,100,000,000. Clear around the world, the United Nations' emphasis had shifted to the attack.

Eastern Front—Fighting on the Eastern front reached an uneasy lull, after repeated German attempts to force ground at the Krymskaya junction in the Kuban, and to improve their positions around Novorossisk. Both attempts failed with considerable losses to the enemy, who had pressed forward with fresh infantry, tank and plane support in some volume. Three successive thrusts were launched in the Caucasus area by the Germans, each with heavy air support. Russian defenders held their ground, and took a considerable toll of the enemy, who had to advance over open ground in rugged positions. The German thrust failed after repeated assaults, all of which were thrown back. The Donets battle was not renewed. Further north, toward Smolensk, the Russians infiltrated into German positions, withstood counter-attacks, and held their new ground. South of Bely, eighty miles northwest of Smolensk, Russian attacks took several outposts, from which the enemy was dislodged. There was a considerable exchange of air raids, particularly behind the lines in the Caucasus. In these, the enemy rapped Krasnodar, and Russian airmen drove against enemy reinforcements east of the Crimea, and at the Strait of Kerch. Positional warfare, with patrol clashes, succeeded on the long front as the period ended. In sum, however the Russians had held the bulk of their Winter gains, and had improved their position notably in the centre and north. A British fighter squadron returned from Murmansk service, with new friendships, and some gold stars for gallantry in the field.

In The Near East—After the smashing defeat of Rommel's forces in the 200-mile advance from the Mareth line to Enfidaville, the Tunisian campaign paused long enough for the regrouping of forces and fresh preparations for the final attack. In this, however, the enemy was given no rest. The British Eighth Army, attacking with infantry at the coast, sprang the enemy out of hill positions outside of Enfidaville; occupied Enfidaville and Tawrouna, five miles to the west; and infested the enemy on heights at Djebel Garci, where hand to hand fighting ensued. Five successive enemy counter-attacks failed to dislodge these gains, which continued at a more cautious pace over rugged hill terrain. In the centre, French troops captured Rag-El-Hedji, forty miles west of Enfidaville, in association with United States troops. The bulk of United States forces were shifted to the north of the line, as the action had already outrun their initial flanking positions, and was developing into a siege of Bizerte and Tunis, in both of which the enemy is very strongly entrenched. The British First Army made decisive gains north of Medjez-El-Bab, taking commanding heights in that area, and withstanding successive counter attacks by the pick of the German troops under von Arnim. It was conceded that what faced the Allies now were triple lines of both natural and artificial defences, strongly fortified. On every narrowing yard, however, a greater weight of artillery fire fell. From the air the attack was maintained with little intervention; upon airfields, on transports still struggling back to Tunis upon Bizerte and Tunis, and in sweeping raids over the Sardinia-Sicily-Italian triangle. United States machines carried out another concentrated raid on Naples, while Malta fighters were in shuttle service on all points within reach of their dromes. Firmly entrenched in the air, and closing the gap by sea, the United Nations had the Axis last hold on Africa securely boxed, waiting for the decisive action which will come when present preparations have been completed. Axis plane losses mounted, and their chief airfields were under fire.

Middle and Far East—From Burma it was reported that Japanese infiltration on the Mayu Peninsula had been stopped, and that ground positions remained unchanged. British and United States machines bombed Rangoon and interior communications in several stiff raids, and followed these by daylight attacks against some enemy concentrations along the upper Chindwin River. Details were slight. In China, Chungking reported local successes by Chinese troops against the Japanese at four points, including actions northeast of Canton, southeast of Ichang, in Southern Shantung, and in Northern Kiangsu. Several hundred enemy dead were left on the field as a result of Japanese rushes which failed. Late in the week, United States and Chinese flyers attacked Japanese forward bases in strength, turning back interceptors and dropping a considerable weight of bombs. In the Southwestern Pacific, while no clear change was discernible, there was a stepping up of aerial action on both sides. Allied machines made hard raids against Munda, Nauru and Kendari, one at a range of 1,500 miles. Return raids were met over Guadalcanal and Allied coast positions on New Guinea. Both northeast and northwest in the island fringe enemy positions were attacked by air. Japanese positions at Wewak and along the New Guinea coast were heavily pounded. The immediate results were not detailed and no surface action was reported. In the Aleutians, Kiska harbor and airfield were visited with shuttle raids by both army and navy planes, as the Allies concentrated on continuing Japanese efforts to build runways there. Considerable damage was caused by these attacks on shore, successive reports reiterated.

A PLEA FOR DOGS

Sir,—On behalf of all dog lovers, we wish to appeal to the authorities to modify the edict to collect all dogs which are on the streets by pounding stray and homeless dogs only.

We, who are in touch with a great majority of dogs and owners, know the agony and grief this attack on their dumb companions is causing.

Since the dog is a carnivora, he is exempt as to his appetite on the vegetable garden. He may love to scamper there or bury a bone, but surely this natural instinct is not sufficient to condemn him to confinement the length of his life.

The owners of these dumb companions are betwixt the S.P.C.A. and the pound. The former demand the dog's daily exercise; and the latter their confinement. Surely, the children of today are not to be deprived of the educational value of humane treatment of their favorite pets!

The dog is a gift of God to man, thus to destroy him would have its consequences. We again entreat a moderation in the use of this law.

AGAINST CHLORINATION

Sir,—Among the thousands signing the petition against chlorination many are former residents of Edmonton, Alberta.

Yesterday there were three citizens of Edmonton gathered here, and they were unanimous in their praise of Victoria's pure, "crystal clear" water. Two of them had been recommended to come to Victoria by their doctor, on account of kidney trouble, which, they say, is very prevalent in Edmonton. The other said that Edmonton had to install a $125,000 water plant to condition the water for domestic use, after chlorination. The result was so indifferent he had to have a $250 plant installed in his own home before the water was fit for all domestic purposes.

These people were of the opinion that the people of Victoria did not know when they were well off, and, if any money was to be spent, it could not be put to better purpose than providing more frequent tests and extra guards—if necessary—to preserve our naturally pure water.

APHORISMS

Sir,—The wise sayings or aphorisms of your columnist in the paper the other day are very interesting, but I think one or two of them could have been improved by the preface, "Is it true, or is it false." It seems to me that the phrase, "No man, no dog, was ever born vicious," has more of the earmarks of wishful thinking about it than a regard for the strict and unadulterated truth.

The ground appeals to be firmer when we come to the saying, "The birds know no business cycles," but only at first sight, for the birds do run into good and bad business many times though they may not be smart enough to know it. The meaning of the phrase is not very clear as it might be taken to mean that the birds have their good and bad times and are not conscious of them, but as there would be little point in saying that, we are left with the inference that the feathered tribe have no ups and downs at all. If that is what is meant I'm afraid Mr. Graves won't find many naturalists in agreement with him.

Nature, "red in tooth and claw," and including many adverse and tricky elements, sees to it, that the birds have little need to complain about the lack of business cycles.

CO-OPERATION

Sir,—I would like to thank the people of Saanich for their kind co-operation during my canvass against chlorination. I canvassed well over 800 people and a large majority treated me with both courtesy and kindness. It is both heartening and uplifting. In a world so corrupt as the present one, to find a flow so strong of the milk of human kindness.

SLAUGHTER PERMITS

Sir,—On April 15 the writer was informed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that some farmers holding interim slaughtering permits, will be issued permanent permits as soon as possible.

Yesterday, April 19, it was announced in the press that all holders of uncancelled interim slaughtering permits may continue to operate until the end of this month. This is the present position.

Whilst it is fully realized, with the rationing of meat, that the board desires to check black marketing it is felt that in the interests of the maintenance of the maximum supplies of meat that all farmers should be granted permanent slaughtering permits. It may be necessary to require all permit holders to make periodic returns of all livestock slaughtered and in the case of wholesale sales stating to whom sold; in the case of retail sales turning in the necessary ration coupons. This reboot keeping will be a nuisance to the already overworked farmers and will interfere with their productive ability to some extent, but it is far preferable to being denied the right to slaughter for sale.

It is urgently necessary for all farmers' organizations to call special meetings to protest any new slaughter regulations denying farmers their right to slaughter for sale. Also all consumers through their representatives should protest such denial to slaughter, if they wish to obtain the maximum supplies of meat.

Some of the reasons for such protest are as follows:

1. Large numbers of small farmers, who collectively produce a large quantity of meat, will be unable to continue producing livestock for meat if they are forced to sell "live" to the big distributers, who will be in a unique position to "squeeze" rumously low prices out of the unfortunate farmer with no alternative [illegible] profits can thereby be swelled whilst keeping under the retail ceiling price. There are no "floor" prices under farm produce prices. The small farmers will be unable to continue to produce under such conditions and a large aggregate supply of meat will go off the market.

2. Instead of checking the black marketing of meat, any attempt to prevent farmers from slaughtering for sale is very likely to produce a boomerang effect and encourage many otherwise law-abiding farmers to enter the black market in order to live. The issuing of slaughter permits to all farmers applying for same will remove this danger.

3. Many farmers sell their choice, select fresh meat, direct from the farm, at public markets. These may be forced out of business, which will cause loss of revenue to the municipal authorities affected as well as loss of meat available to the public.

Please send copies of your protest resolutions and helpful suggestions direct to Donald Gordon, W.P.T.B., Ottawa, by air mail, also to your nearest local W.P.T.B. office, your local member of the Federal and Provincial Governments, the Federal and Provincial ministers of agriculture, and the press.

"ONLY AN ANIMAL"

Sir,—It might be helpful if dog-haters would read "Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow," by Jerome K. Jerome. I will quote what he says at the end of his chapter on "Dog."

"Oh! Staunch old friend, with your deep, clear eyes and bright, quick glances which take in all one has to say before one has time to speak it. Do you know your are only an animal and have no mind? Do you know that the dull-eyed lout leaning against a post out there is immeasurably your intellectual superior? Do you know that every little-minded selfish scoundrel, who never did a gentle deed or said a kind word, who never had a thought that was not mean or low or a desire that was not mean and base, whose every action is a fraud and every utterance is a lie . . . Do you know that these crawling human blighters are totally superior to you? You honorable, brave-hearted, unselfish beast?

"They are men, you know. And men are the greatest and wisest and best creatures in the universe. Any man will tell you that."

Our dog-haters would not want to read Senator Vest's remarks, in part:

"The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him and proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. When all other friends desert, he remains. He is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. When death takes the master, and his body is laid in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there, by his graveside, will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even unto death." The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the silt at the Esquimalt Drydock at any time, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

According to Culbertson

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: My partner and I missed top score in last night's duplicate by two points and although, as is always the case, there were several hands on which we could have done better, our discussion naturally centred around the last hand of the night because we had done so badly on that. Will you kindly discuss the correct bidding of this deal?

South dealer.

Match-point duplicate.

SOUTH

♣ A K Q J 6

The way the bidding actually went at our table was as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

"My partner and I sat South and North respectively. As you will see immediately, we defeated the four spade doubled contract by only one trick, getting one club, two hearts and one diamond, but the 200-point penalty we collected brought us almost a bottom score.

"Our discussion revolved around the question of whether South's double was correct under the circumstances, or whether he should have taken some other action.

In my opinion, South was ill advised to double the four spade bid, particularly since this was match-point duplicate, not rubber bridge. In the first place, he could not be absolutely sure of defeating four spades; in the second place (and most important), he should have had serious doubt as to the size of the penalty he probably would collect. A vulnerable player does not bid for ten tricks, as West did, without being fairly close to his goal, this, of course, assuming that the player is reasonably experienced. Hence, if West had reason to count on at least eight tricks, he might (as he actually did) find another trick in East's hand, and come out with a one trick set. From South's point of view, it was reasonable to expect that, aside from the spade split, the few missing high cards (heart ace and diamond K-Q) would be divided between North and South. If that were so, South certainly figured to make five-odd in the best combined trump suit, as against a one trick set of East's spade contract. If North-South could make a game, it would be worth at least 600 points, so even if four spades could be defeated two tricks, West would have made an excellent sacrifice.

As to South's exact action, other than the double, that depended a great deal on the bidding style of his partnership. The expert bid at this point would be four no trump, which would be an urgent demand upon partner to go to five clubs, five diamonds or five hearts. This bid, however, would not work out well if North were the sort of player to read it as a "Blackwood" four no trump and, under that circumstance, South's best decision would be to bid five clubs.

Death Claims Sporting Peer

Duke of Portland Passes at Home

LONDON, April 26 (CP).—The Duke of Portland, a sporting peer and a great Edwardian, died at his home, Welbeck Abbey, Nottinghamshire, today. The duke was eighty-five and had been in failing health for some time.

Titchfield, will inherit the dukedom and become the Seventh Duke of Portland. The marquis is a member of the House of Commons for Newark (Nottinghamshire), and his elevation will cause a by-election.

The duke came into his inheritance in 1879 upon the death of his cousin, the Fifth Duke. Christened William John Arthur Charles James Cavendish-Bentinck, the Sixth Duke managed London properties and estates of 183,000 acres, chiefly in Nottinghamshire. He was Lord-Lieutenant of the county there for nearly forty years.

He was a leading figure of the English turf and his horses won the Derby twice.

Two Escape as Bomber Crashes

TORONTO, April 26 (CP).—A Mosquito bomber on a routine test flight from De Havilland Aircraft Company burst into flames and dived at more than 400 miles an hour into an open field north of the city late today. The two occupants of the craft bailed out and landed safely.

The men were Flt. Lt. Gerald Woolf, of Peterborough, Ont., and a company engineer, Timothy Stone, Winnipeg.

Woolf was taken to hospital with abrasions to his hand and chin and an injured right heel. He said he landed on a railway and was dragged through gravel.

Press that sixty-four German tanks had been knocked out in the last seventy-two hours.

GERMANS YIELD MANY STRONGHOLDS

On the southern end of their western mountain line the Germans were yielding many of their strongholds with little resistance. Headquarters announced that the French Nineteenth Army Corps had won five mountains after only brief fighting.

Jurgen von Arnim had ordered withdrawals on his flanks while he still had the power to fight a delaying action.

A military spokesman said that Von Arnim had concentrated his remaining armor to "fight it out" with the British tanks east of Goubellat. "This is a vital area," he said.

North and south of Medjez-el-Bab British forces captured strategic hills. Djebel Tanngoucha, a peak commanding the road from Medjez-el-Bab to Tebourba, "gateway to Tunis," finally was cleared by British infantry and tanks and a spokesman said "the remnants of the garrison were captured."

South of Medjez-el-Bab British infantry seized a hill six miles east of Bou Arada and clung to it in the face of a Nazi counter-attack. This placed Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Anderson's First Army forces almost within artillery range of Pont du Fahs. It was the fourth time the peak had changed hands within ten days.

HARD TANK FIGHTING IN AREA

There was hard tank fighting throughout yesterday below Sedjnane el Kroumia, which is in the same area. An Allied spokesman said the Axis "suffered heavy losses in men and tanks" and that all Allied forward positions remained intact. The Germans were fighting desperately to prevent Allied tank formations from cutting the road from Pont du Fahs to Tunis.

The German High Command communique said the battle on the west front continued "with unabated violence" and that Allied attempts to break through with masses of tanks had been thrown back with serious losses.

Allied headquarters announced the Axis had lost a total of 60,000 men killed, wounded and captured in North Africa between January 1 and April 15, and in the same period had lost 250 tanks, 7,000 vehicles, 425 guns and 34 ships sunk by Allied land-based aircraft alone.

"In air combat," the announcement said, "our forces destroyed 918 enemy planes, probably destroyed

Allied air raids accounted for another 580 enemy planes destroyed on the ground." Of the Axis personnel losses, 36,000 were said to have been taken prisoner and the others killed or wounded.

POUND ENEMY GUN POSITIONS

The Allied tactical air force continued to pound advanced enemy gun positions, infantry, tanks and transport yesterday. Twelve Allied planes were lost on the sorties while seven German and Italian planes were shot down during the day.

French units closing in on Pont du Fahs were reported to have advanced more than twelve miles in thirty-six hours of fighting since they dislodged the enemy from Djebel Mansour, strongly fortified 2,200-foot peak. Another mountain height was reported occupied in the same region yesterday, and the French were said to have seized many prisoners and important war material.

The British Eighth Army was reported to have mopped up Djebel Terbouna, five miles northwest of Enfidaville on the east coast and to have taken fifty more prisoners.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, April 26 (CP) — Premier Jan Christiaan Smuts is expected to visit the United States after the South African general election in August, it was announced today. Smuts is known to be anxious to meet President Roosevelt and discuss the war and postwar reconstruction.

Fish Prices Still Soaring

SEATTLE, April 26 (AP).—The payoff to fishermen continued today at a record-setting clip.

Members of the halibut schooner Brisk crew collected approximately $1,000 apiece for four days of fishing as the cargo of 41,000 pounds sold for nearly $15,000. It was reported at the Fishermen's Exchange first trip of the season.

A new all-time salmon price peak was set as a 1,000-pound cargo sold on the exchange for 51 1-2 cents a pound. It was trucked from the coastal community of Westport, Wash. The previous peak of 48 cents was paid last week.

Fishing industry leaders have attributed the soaring prices more to the shortage of fish, due to recent unfavorable conditions on the fish banks, than to the coinciding shortage of meats. Sliced fresh salmon has been retailing here recently for 60 to 70 cents a pound.

Last Premier of Greece Hopeful

BOSTON, April 26 (AP).—Costas Cotzias, the last man called to the premiership of Greece before the Germans smashed into Athens two years ago today, predicts:

Sure freedom for Greece in 1944 and perhaps even in 1943.

Probably installation of an American or mixed commission to govern Greece temporarily.

Establishment of a democratic form of government after an election.

Repair of war ravages and financial reconstruction "within a period of four years after the establishment of a government by and for the people."

Cotzias made his prediction in an interview.

Veteran Trader And Canneryman Fine Character

By P. M. K.

It is hard to realize for the moment that genial, genuine George Simpson McTavish has gone from among us. Quite some time ago I made his acquaintance, and in the course of years came to know him measurably well, learning to appreciate his brusque individualism and rugged philosophy, which were acquired, he would smilingly admit, during the formative years of his youth when he served the Hudson's Bay Company in the lonely outposts about Hudson Bay and in the Cassiar district—subsequently developing these traits while an operator of more or less isolated canneries on the Coast of British Columbia. He prided himself on both these acquisitions of individualist and philosophic trends, and frankly let it be known at the same time that he was utterly opposed to every meanness practiced by man whenever the opportunity of voicing such thoughts offered.

Sham and hypocrisy, no matter where they showed their presence, in pulpit, press or politics, were the subjects of his bitter although humorous-tinged condemnation. Similarly he was particularly outspoken against the petty devices often employed by seekers of favors in private as well as public life. He believed in a man getting places on his merits.

BORN IN SERVICE OF FUR COMPANY

Born you might say on the service of the Hudson's Bay Company when his father, also named G. S. McTavish, was an inspector under the old regime, he was the great grandson of Sir George Simpson, who held the governorship of the great fur-trading company for something like four decades. He was fifteen years of age when he became in 1879 an apprentice clerk at York Factory and after acquitting himself well on various missions along the north coast, was in charge at that important post when he transferred to Winnipeg in 1889, leaving the Hudson's Bay service in 1892 after a short term in the Liard River country.

He had many tales to tell of the Northland of both sides of Canada. His experiences though were centred for the most part about Hudson Bay. The solitude of the northern wastes early made its impression on the young trader, but he overcame its depressing effects in the only logical way—by keeping a contented mind and seeking the solace of philosophy. The Northland, as he knew it, would be the ideal training ground for an Indian mystic who might desire to reach his objective through silent meditation, he often laughingly remarked.

INTERESTED IN FRENCH EXPLORER

Interested during leisure moments in the history of English-French conflicts in the Hudson Bay area, Mr. McTavish became an admirer of the French naval officer and explorer, La Perouse, and when he came to the British Columbia Coast extended his knowledge of La Perouse's activities in the North Pacific. As a member of the British Columbia Historical Association he at one time advocated that La Perouse's memory be perpetuated in one of the Queen Charlotte Islands, as the island mentioned was one of three of the same name on the Coast. As the proposal stirred some opposition he defended it by saying the change in name wouldn't detract anything from the British officer after whom it was named and would avoid geographic confusion. While managing his cannery properties up the Coast, Mr. McTavish was also instrumental in procuring details relating to the origin of place names for the Geographical Board of Canada.

Active until a comparatively short time before his passing, George Simpson McTavish, with his humorous sallies and well-intentional criticisms of unrighteousness in all ways of life, was able to look any man in the eyes and tell him his convictions. And did so. In the words of Hamlet: "He was a man, Horatio."

Weddings

WARNER—ROWE

One of the loveliest Easter weddings was the fully choral service conducted last night at St. Matthias' Church by Rev. Burges-Browne when Ethel Charlotte, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rowe, 206 Robertson Street, became the bride of Mr. Richard Edwin Warner, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Warner, 708 Suffolk Street. Mr. Gray was at the organ. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a floor-length white sheer gown, with round smocked yoke, bishop's sleeves, and a wide girdle. She wore a becoming Mary Stuart headdress with chapel silk embroidered veil and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, gardenias and very pale pink Virginia carnations. White sweet peas were twined in the white streamers. Her only ornament was a two-strand string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Attending the bride were two bridesmaids, Miss Winifred Fallick, in pink net with a large picture hat en suite, and Miss Barbara Warner, only sister of the bridegroom, in turquoise blue net with large picture hat. Their dresses were floor-length with full skirts, and featured the sweetheart necklines. They carried Colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds, white and pink carnations, and blue iris. The groomsman was Mr. James Kearney, of Vancouver, and ushers were the bride's brother, Sgt. Albert Rowe, R.C.A.F., and Mr. Charles Ricketts. During the ceremony the young couple stood beneath a floral arch, the artistic work of the bride's aunt, Mrs. D. R. McDonald, of Courtenay. Following the wedding a reception was held at St. Matthias' Hall, when Mr. and Mrs. Warner were assisted in receiving the many guests by their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rowe and Mr. and Mrs. Warner. The three-tier wedding cake, surmounted by a vase containing pink sweet peas and lily of the valley, held the place of honor at the supper table. Mr. C. Ellis proposed the toast to the bride. For a honeymoon to be spent in Vancouver the bride wore for traveling a dusty rose dress, with hat to match and beige accessories.

WAELTI—WOOLLEY

A popular teacher of Sooke Superior School, Miss Olivia Barbara Woolley, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Woolley, 26 Marlborough Street, became the bride of Mr. Hans Waelti, Victoria, formerly of Switzerland, at a ceremony solemnized by Rev. George Biddle in St. John's Church on Easter Monday afternoon. Mr. Ian Galliford played the wedding marches and "Ave Maria," from "Cavalleria Rusticana," as the register was being signed. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a sweeping gown of white satin and a veil held in place with a wreath of white roses. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley, gardenias and pink roses. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Carol Woolley, in a frock of pink triple sheer, and their cousin, Miss Myra Batchelor, in white, who wore doll hats of ribbon to match their gowns and carried bouquets of pink snapdragons and carnations tied with blue and white streamers, respectively. Mr. J. H. Crossley was groomsman and the usher was Mr. James Gower. About fifty guests, including the bride's pupils from Sooke, were entertained at Terry's Rose Room at a reception following the ceremony when Mr. A. A. Campbell gave the toast to the bride. For a honeymoon on the Mainland the bride chose a Queen's blue ensemble. Mr. and Mrs. Waelti will make their home in Victoria.

JUKES—GRAVLIN

At the United Church, Vernon, B.C., on April 24, Rev. J. H. Davies, D.D., officiated at the marriage of Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gravlin, 2706 Topp Avenue, Victoria, and Lieut. Arthur H. Jukes, 16th Scottish, C.B., D.T.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jukes, Toronto, Ont. The bride was given in marriage by Lt.-Col. J. F. Scott and wore a turquoise blue two-piece dress, a small beige straw hat trimmed with turquoise blue flowers and a veil, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. E. E. Teagle was matron of honor, in a British tan wool frock with brown accessories and a corsage bouquet of rose carnations, and Captain Teagle was groomsman. The wedding breakfast was held at the National Hotel, where the bride cut the cake with a Commando dagger. For a honeymoon at Kelowna the bride left in a honey tan suit and overcoat with a fox collar and brown accessories. Lieutenant and Mrs. Jukes will make their home at Vernon for the present.

HORTIE-DOHENY

At a pretty wedding solemnized by Rev. Father Buckley in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes on Monday evening, Amy Louise, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Doheny, 947 Monterey Avenue, became the bride of Sy. P.O. Carl Leo Hortie, R.C.N., elder son of Mrs. D. Hortie and the late Mr. Hortie, Porcupine, Ont. The organist was in attendance and the fragrant Easter decorations made a lovely background for the ceremony. The bride was given away by her father and wore a floor-length frock of white brocaded satin with long pointed sleeves. Her embroidered veil fell from a halo headdress of net and orange blossom and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, carnations, gardenias, lily of the valley and white heather. Mrs. Eric Slegg was matron of honor, in a graceful frock of turquoise blue sheer and a matching shoulder veil and headdress, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and sweet peas. Sy. P.O. Walter Clare, R.C.N., was groomsman, and acting as ushers were Sgt. Arthur Montgomery, R.C.A., and S.A. James Lister, R.C.N.V.R. The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webster, 1077 Davie Street, where flowers were profusely arranged. Vases of pink carnations adorned the candle-lit supper table which was centred with the cake surmounted by a miniature ship. Rev. T. Menzies, an old family friend, gave the toast to the bride. After a short honeymoon, for which the bride left in a powder blue ensemble with a beige coat, Sy. P.O. and Mrs. Hortie will make their home in Victoria.

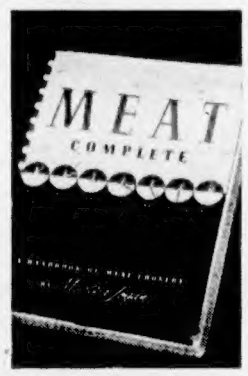
WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Tuesday

by Martha Logan

Why Nutrition IS Important

Experiments by Canadian Scientists prove a proper diet is vital to health



Every woman wants to see a finer and better country grow out of the tribulations of the present. And one of the real jobs we women can do to make that better Canada come true is to get behind our government's nutrition program. Canada's official food rules are practical and easy to follow, even under wartime conditions. They tell us the minimum of protective foods we need to keep really fit. And these protective foods are not a matter of guesswork. Years of research—much of it by Canadian scientists—have proved again and again that without the protective foods we just can't be the healthy men and women Canada needs—especially in time of war.

Here, once again, are the things everyone should eat every day—with some of the reasons why:

MEAT, FISH OR POULTRY—At least one serving daily . . . to build strong muscles. (Liver, heart or kidney at least once a week. Eggs 3 or 4 times).

MILK—Adults ½ pint. Children, more than a pint . . . cheese as available . . . for bones and teeth.

BREAD—4 to 6 slices of Canada Approved bread, brown or white . . . for pep and energy—and one serving of whole grain cereal.

TOMATOES or CITRUS FRUIT—Or their juices every day . . . to keep you fit and able to resist infection.

FRUIT—One other serving of fruit daily . . . for better growth and better eyes.

VEGETABLES—At least two servings daily of yellow and leafy green vegetables, frequently raw . . . to help you resist illness. And potatoes daily, too . . . best cooked in their jackets!

Actually, of course, each of these basic foods performs more than one protective function, which is another reason why we need them all if Canada is not to become a C3 nation. And remember, these are the minimum requirements. Beyond these, within the limit of wartime supplies, let your natural appetite be your guide.

Entertaining Kiwanis Show Aids Solarium

Last evening at the Royal Victoria Theatre "London Calling," the Kiwanis Kapers show of 1943, had its initial performance. Written and produced by Reginald Hincks the musical revue was presented by the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, under the distinguished patronage of His Honor W. C. Woodward, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and Mrs. Woodward; Hon. John Hart, Premier of British Columbia, and Mrs. Hart, and His Worship Mayor Andrew McGavin and Mrs. McGavin. Proceeds from the show, which is being repeated this evening, will be donated by the Kiwanians to charitable objectives including the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

During the evening's entertainment many of the old songs made popular by famous music hall artists were heard. In the first scene, laid outside Hyde Park, London, complete with street urchins, muffin man, organ grinders, costers and other characters typical of the early days of 1900, the song "Old Kent Road" was sung by Roger Greig, and "Bicycle Built for Two" by Bill Hutchinson and Jim Taylor. The audience was introduced to "Ol' Bill and 'Erb," played by James McGrath and Douglas Park, while Don Oliver introduced the policemen's chorus. "Soldiers in the Park," the last number in scene one, featured the principal soloist of the show, Peggy Moore.

Jay Pogson and Ralph Glover, as a couple of dudes, won hearty applause with their selection "Great Scot," which opened the second scene. Roger Greig, Art Veals and James McGrath made a decided hit in a song of a topical flavor, while the part-singing of Catherine Craig, Gwen Brown, Mary Partridge, Elsie Fryatt, Eileen Brown, J. Oakman, J. Barraclough, David Oldham and John Bray in "Who, O'er the Downs So Free" was encored. Another hit of the show was "I Belong Tae Glasgae," sung by a "typey," Joe Dobbie. A humorous selection, "All About Soldiers," was given by Catherine Green.

The third scene, "By the Sea," showed a holiday crowd in a gay mood and ready to be amused by the pierrot concert party and minstrels. Songs included "Dixie," "Playing on the Old Banjo," "Oh That Ringtail Coon" and "Beautiful Lady."

Peggy Moore, dressed as an Irish colleen, sang "Girl With a Brogue." The entrance of a hen-pecked husband with a wife and numerous children caused a diversion. Taking part were, Don Jacobs as the husband, Mrs. W. H. Thornborrow, the North Country wife and the children were members of the Wynne Shaw dancing studio. Bathing beauties made their appearance and took part in the medley from "Pinafore" featuring John Bray, David Oldham, Don Oliver and Iris Brown.

New Year's Eve in good old London Town, the final act of the revue, was attractively staged depicting a scene of merry-making in a restaurant. The diners were entertained by celebrities of music hall fame including Charles Coburn, impersonated by Art Veals, singing "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," and Edna May, impersonated by Betty Fawcett, singing "Belle of New York." Other numbers were a colorful Can Can dance by Toleta Williams, Muriel Eastwood, Iris Thorogood and Agnes Richards, a duet, "If You Were the Only Girl in the World," by Peggy Moore and Roger Greig; "The Two Boys Bing," Roger Greig, Jay Pogson and a tumbling act—billed as the "Sarsaparilla Family" which was enthusiastically received by the audience.

The entertainment closed with the toast, "Here's a Health Unto His Majesty" sung by David Oldham and "Auld Lang Syne."

Music for the show was provided by William F. Tickle and the Empress Hotel orchestra.

C.W.A.C.'s Boast Two Bands

OTTAWA, April 26—The Canadian Women's Army Corps now has two bands—military and pipe—it was announced at National Defence Headquarters. This announcement coincided with the arrival in Ottawa of the nucleus of an all C.W.A.C. pipe band formed in Pacific Command.

The Canadian Women's Army Corps has also a twenty-seven-piece military band organization now combining training and rehearsals at Currie Barracks, Alberta.

SERGT. LILLIAN GRANT

With the arrival for further training of the pipe band, it is announced the trained women pipers are urgently needed. Qualified women drummers are also sought.

Organizer and leader of the band is red-haired Sergeant Lillian Grant whose parents went to Victoria, British Columbia, from Inverness, Scotland. Before enlisting she was leader of the Highland Lassies Pipe Band in Victoria.

Stressing that the present band is merely a nucleus, Sergeant Grant says, "Just wait until you see the C.W.A.C. swinging along behind their own pipers. It will make the boys look to their marching."

Other members of the band come from widely separated parts of the Empire—from Victoria, B.C., to Lancashire, England—and represent many diversified occupations.

There is Pte. Doris A. Macdonald, who enlisted in Courtenay, B.C., where she was a teacher of piano. A Victoria, B.C. girl is Pte. Mary Barrick, who has a brother in the navy and a sister in the C.W.A.C.

Brandon, Manitoba, was the birthplace of Pte. Helen N. L. Stephens, but she enlisted at Port Alberni, B.C., where she was employed as postoffice clerk. She comes by her love of the pipes honestly, having two brothers in the championship pipe band of the Canadian Scottish Regiment.

Pte. Marie Ginnevar was born in Harworth, Notts., England, and moved to the town of Alberni, B.C., where she served as shop assistant. One brother is overseas in the Royal Canadian Signal Corps.

They are being trained by Pipe-Major J. MacMillan, of No. 3 District Depot Pipe Band.

From Europe

people everywhere will be disappointed.

The Germans now fear they will lose Novorossisk. They have lost the initiative on the Kuban front, and the Red Army is slowly gaining various essential points. Novorossisk is under continual shelling and the battle for it is not likely to be brief.

Finland's request for help from Washington to find out a basis for a peace settlement with Russia was brought to nothing when the Finns told Hitler about it, and Von Ribbentrop intervened with threats.

According to the Stockholm correspondent of The Times, the Finnish Government then refused to go further with their request, and consequently the United States Legation staff, with the exception of the charge d'affaires, was ordered to leave Helsinki.

This action by Washington has caused consternation among the Finns.

In a survey of Axis political activity in recent weeks, The Times says the Nazis have begun to realize their new order never had any foundation except sand. Now it is clear the whole civilized world is ranged against them, and having failed to knock out Russia, they are trying to stave off defeat by guileful diplomacy and propaganda. They are trying to get help from allies who hate them and to divide the United Nations by sowing distrust between the Soviet and the United States.

All over the Balkans evidence accumulates of the weakness of the Axis bastions there. As for Mussolini, he is credited with an attempt to conciliate the small nations, but what he and Hitler have sown they will soon reap.

Differences in views in the Ulster Cabinet over the leadership of Premier J. M. Andrews may lead to resignations and the remaking of the Government, says The Times' Belfast correspondent.

The Unionist party wants a more virile and practical wartime leadership. Members of the party complain that Northern Ireland has 18,000 unemployed, while the British Isles are calling on women to do part-time work in factories.

From Burma, it is reported the Japanese have been murdering prisoners taken in the Arakan fighting. The Times' correspondent at General Headquarters, India, says eye-witness report British and Indian soldiers unable to carry supplies for the Japanese have been deliberately bayonetted.

Inner resources may slowly and imperceptibly be exhausted.

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

Transport Problems Are Acute

U.S. Scores Some Partial Victories

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—The Office of War Information reported on Sunday that the battle of transportation in the United States is being won.

But the agency warned that the achievements are not necessarily permanent since equipment is being used close to its limit, while transportation of oil and of workers to war factories still remains acute.

The O.W.I. cited the following as "victories":

"Railroad transportation is vastly better than during the last war, when serious freight congestions were widespread. The railroads are moving troops and they are moving civilians without comforts, without delays and beyond essential needs.

"Buses, street cars, passenger cars and even box cars are getting war workers to plants and homes. Refrigerator cars, which used to return empty to the West and South, are carrying back freight.

TANK CARS CARRY OIL

"Tank cars are carrying a large part of the oil that, in peace, would have gone by water. 'Big Inch,' the pipeline from Texas, is crawling eastward and is already delivering 60,000 barrels of oil a day at Norris City, Ill.

"Barges which used to lie idle are carrying war freight on rivers and canals. Highway trucks, which used to return empty, are moving pay loads. Airplanes are still taking passengers, on priority.

"The victories, however, are not essentially permanent . . . railroad passenger equipment, buses, private automobiles, tires, parts and tank cars are wearing out.

"Few replacements are being made; the manpower shortage is serious and may get worse."

Of the problem of getting workers to and from their jobs every day, the O.W.I. said:

"Figures showing the increased use of transportation systems in crowded American cities engaged in war production are pretty staggering.

"As compared with December, 1938 (called the last 'normal' year in the transit industry because it was the last year before defence work started), the Detroit Street Railway System showed a passenger increase last December of 76.9 per cent. The Baltimore Transit Line was up 90 per cent and the Washington, D.C., Transit Line up 131 per cent.

"These figures shrink, however, when placed beside those for medium-sized and smaller cities with war plants. Passenger transportation in Charleston, S.C., was up 822 per cent; in Wilmington, N.C., 823 per cent."

"The War Production Board has permitted use of materials for only 3,000 new buses this year, the O.W.I. pointed out, whereas if this were a normal year 15,000 new buses would be replacing old ones.

"Terming the railroads' job 'gigantic,' the O.W.I. said that in 1942 they carried 638,000,000,000 ton-miles of freight, an increase of one-third over 1941, and this year could be expected to carry even more.

AIRMEN PASS QUOTA

PICTON, Ont., April 26 (CP).—Canada's Fourth Victory Loan got a boost when R.A.F. airmen at the bombing and gunnery school here alone subscribed nearly double the objective of the entire school. By Saturday night the total from the R.A.F. men had reached $11,500, or 192 per cent of the school's $6,000 objective.

To Consider New Request

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP).—A Labor Department official [illegible] that the request of Vancouver and district aircraft workers for the appointment of a commissioner to investigate conditions at the plant of Boeing Aircraft of Canada, Ltd., probably would be considered tomorrow by the department.

He said that the employees had asked for the appointment of a commissioner under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act Saturday, but that he had heard nothing of a reported demand by the workers for action by the Labor Department on their request for two ten-minute rest periods per eight-hour shift at the Boeing plant and the Canadian Pacific Air Lines overhaul plant at nearby New Westminster.

The spokesman said the aircraft workers' application had not mentioned a closed shop agreement with Boeing. A Vancouver dispatch quoted Charles Ghent, president of Aeronautical Mechanics Lodge, No. 756 (A.F.L.), as saying the union wanted the closed shop agreement, general wage increases averaging ten cents an hour "across the board," and vacations with pay. The union has a membership of approximately 7,000.

Join the Navy And—You Can Expect Anything

HALIFAX, April 26 (CP).—Join the navy and—you can expect anything. That's what Steward Charles McFarlane, R.C.N.R., a native of England, found out recently while on a train traveling from the West Coast to Halifax. With no doctors or nurses available, the youthful steward was called on to deliver a baby born in one of the coaches.

McFarlane volunteered for the emergency job after the train conductor had rushed up and down the cars, calling for a doctor. The steward, thinking it was only a minor accident or illness, told the conductor he knew some first aid and offered his services.

Breathing a sigh of relief, the conductor grabbed him by the arm and hustled him off to the expectant mother.

McFarlane tried to gulp out that he wasn't a doctor, but it was too late for explaining. Rolling up his sleeves, he went to work like a veteran.

He did a good job, too, and mother and baby are both doing well. The child, incidentally, will be named after the navy "midwife."

C.P.R. Will Open New Purchasing Office, Edmonton

MONTREAL, April 26.—The Canadian Pacific Railway will open a purchasing office in Edmonton May 1 for both the railway and the Canadian Pacific Air Lines. It is announced here today. H. Ross Impey, of Calgary, will be purchasing agent in charge.

R. A. McElroy, who has been purchasing agent in Edmonton for the Canadian Pacific Air Lines since May of last year will be transferred to Winnipeg in a promotion which will make him an assistant purchasing agent at the Western Lines headquarters of the company.

Establishment of a new purchasing centre in Edmonton to serve both the railway and the airlines recognizes the growing significance and importance of the Alberta capital as the distributing centre for the Canadian Northwest.

Mr. Impey has been in Edmonton for the last two months on loan by the Canadian Pacific to the Northwest Purchasing, Limited, a Crown company incorporated by the Department of Munitions and Supply.

Airmen Serving Here Pay Homage to Anzacs

More than fifty men of the R.A.A.F. and R.N.Z.A.F., who are in training on this Coast, paraded to the War Memorial on Sunday to pay homage to their countrymen, the Anzacs, who twenty-eight years ago to the day had landed at Gallipoli in an unsuccessful attempt to knock Turkey out of the first Great War.

As the Australian flag was unfurled at the memorial, Bishop H. E. Sexton, a native Australian, gave a short address, and prayers were led by the R.A.F. chaplain, Sqdn. Ldr. Rev. J. C. Lusk. A wreath was laid by the parade commander, Flt. Lt. K. W. Trigance, a New Zealander serving with the R.A.F.

Gets Two Years

BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP).—Harvey Lee Thomas, twenty-one-year-old former naval aircraft inspector at the Glenn L. Martin plant, was sentenced today to serve two years for sabotaging planes at the Martin plant.

Thomas admitted at his trial damaging electrical parts of Martin planes but asserted he only aggravated damage to the craft to insure that the defects would be remedied by workers.

Merchant Seaman Made Voyages in Ocean War Zones

After two and one-half years spent at sea in the merchant service, Patrick M. Cavin is now spending furlough with his parents, Capt. and Mrs. E. M. Cavin, 241 Montreal Street.

Six years ago, when he was seventeen years of age, he went to sea as a cadet aboard the Donaldson freighter Corrientes, and has made several voyages to Europe, South Africa and Egypt. Although the ships on which he was serving have not been bombed, he has been through bombing attacks, and has seen ships sunk from his own convoy.

Having passed his examinations in Glasgow for chief officer's rank, he is well on his way to becoming a captain like his father and grandfather. His father is now in the United States army transport service in Alaska, and his grandfather was a sealer and sailing ship master in New Brunswick.

He returned to Victoria immediately following his examination, and will shortly leave for Montreal, where he expects to become second mate on one of the "Park" ships of the Canadian Merchant Marine.

Fire Destroys Naval Building

BAYONNE, N.J., April 26 (AP).—A United States naval supply depot building here was destroyed by fire yesterday when eighty firemen battled flames that blazed out of control for two hours.

Fire Chief James G. Hogan received a foot injury, and listed three firemen as hurt.

Some marines were forced to leap from the windows of the building and many lost their personal possessions, Hogan said.

Ship Sunk in Gulf of Mexico

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—The sinking early this month of a small Norwegian freighter in the Gulf of Mexico, one of four Allied and neutral Western Atlantic merchant losses announced last week by the navy, marked the first announced destruction of a vessel in those waters in more than seven months.

The last sinking revealed in the gulf was the 6,511-ton Amallan, a tanker which Mexico seized from Italy, April 1, 1941, and which was announced as sunk last September 8 with the loss of ten lives.

Since then Axis U-boats have been charged with 189 announced merchant sinkings in other portions of the Western Atlantic. Norway's most recent loss was its sixty-fourth announced in the Western Atlantic.

The three other vessels revealed last week as sunk were medium-sized United States merchantmen, raising to 649 The Associated Press tabulation of announced Allied and neutral cargo sinkings in those waters since Pearl Harbor. Of this total 258 were United States ships.

The navy revealed that only one man out of crews totalling 187 was killed on the four vessels.

NO. 115—EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 1943

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

CAN VICTORIA WIN TONIGHT?

That question, a very important one at that, will be the chief topic of discussion today no matter where you go. Victoria Army's confidence has been bolstered by its great victory early Sunday morning (it was after midnight when the final whistle sounded in Calgary) in the third game against the Ottawa Commandos after ten exciting and thrilling minutes of overtime. We all know what happened while Easter Sunday morn was still in its infancy. With a minute and thirty-four seconds remaining, Sam Kennedy fired home a terrific back-handed shot, which Jim Henry didn't know was in the cage until the red light flashed behind him. It was the finest Easter gift that Manager Bud Ray and Playing Coach Bill Carse has received in many a moon . . . The Commandos had previously staged two successful raids against the Army from this Island and were within reach of their objective, the Allan Cup, when the Victoria soldiers counter-attacked with determination, fighting hearts, stamina and with blazing speed. It was a fierce uphill fight from the time the signal was given to go into action until Saturday was pushed off the calendar by Sunday. Then as the big clock in the rink signified that the "day of days" was upon the 5,500 in the jammed arena, Mr. Kennedy thought it was time to end the argument, which he did a few minutes past midnight . . . Can Victoria win this evening and tie up the series? Yes, I would say they have a mighty fine chance of pulling up on even terms with the powerful Commandos. In the first place the former New York Ranger line of attack is broken up with Alex Shibicky in the hospital. Take a main cog out of any machine and it's bound to weaken it, but, at the same time, this accident may make the Commandos fight all the harder . . . It should be a thriller all the way; the breaks may decide it, and then again, it may be one-sided. My choice, and I hope it back fires, is Ottawa by three goals, so don't say I didn't tell you so.

FROM HERE AND THERE

"Victoria will win Tuesday night and then go on and capture the cup," stated Doug Fletcher, president of the Vancouver Island Hockey League, over the telephone last night as we discussed the series in Calgary. Doug, by the way, was on the verge of hot-footing it for the Alberta city on Sunday to take in the battle tonight, but he changed his mind at the last minute . . . "You will be taking your hat off to the Army yet," said Mrs. M —— Easter Sunday afternoon as I passed her place en route to the city. Although I don't wear head gear of any sort I will salute the boys when they come home, win or lose . . . Unwrap that Memorial Cup and hold it in abeyance for the Winnipeg Rangers are now ahead in the race for it by beating the Oshawa Generals last night in convincing style. They must be out to avenge the setback the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. took in the Allan Cup play-downs in the West . . . I never knew there were so many wise people in the city until after Saturday's game in Alberta. Every second person I met on Sunday said: "I told you so. I can't figure out how you thought the Ottawa team was going to win three straight." The same people pick fight winners when the bouts are finished, never miss at the race track, in fact, they are always hitting the nail on the head the day after. Still they wouldn't lay a dime on a race between a rabbit and a turtle . . . Last season the San Diego Padres were meat for the Seattle Rainiers, Skiff's club taking nineteen out of twenty-six from the Californians, but this season the Southerners have gotten away to a good start, having taken six out of eight games as the campaign was ushered in.

ODDS AND ENDS

This column said a week ago that the Canadian men's senior basketball championship finals would not be played this season due to financial reasons, and now it has been announced as official. Victoria R.C.A.F. will rest on their laurels as Western titleholders, but if the Eastern winners had come to the Coast for the series the airmen would have most likely succeeded the Dominoes as national champions, for they had everything in their favor, including a high-powered ball club. And so ends another casaba season with Victoria sharing a good deal of the spotlight . . . When the man behind the mike on the public address bellows out the batteries for the R.C.A.F. ball squad next Saturday afternoon, don't be the least bit surprised if he doesn't call out the name of Phil Marchildon as starting pitcher for the Flyers. The former member of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics is stationed here and when he starts breezing them over the plate the batters in this circuit will be breaking their backs trying to get a safety through the infield. If the ex-big leaguer has a good battery mate the air force will be in the thick of the running from the start . . . Do you know that Tommy Fielding, former local lightweight boxer, is now in New Guinea as a member of a ground crew in the Royal Australia Air Force? Tommy fought many a gallant fight in the old Tillicum gymnasium, but the local boy met his Waterloo the night he swapped blows with Billy Townsend down in Portland. That was the beginning of the end of his boxing career, for the Vancouver belter belted him to ribbons in the Rose City. But now Tommy is fighting the greatest battle of his lifetime . . . Remember when Dick Moore, young blond-haired shotmaker at the time, won the British Columbia amateur golf title at the Oak Bay links for the first time? That was ten years ago on an Easter Monday and if you enthusiasts recall that day you will remember how it hailed, snowed and blew at the course.

Winnipeg Rangers Trounce Oshawa

Westerners Take Lead in Junior Ice Series by Scoring 7-3 Triumph

By FRASER McDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 26 (CP) — The Winnipeg Rangers hurtled to a 7-3 victory over Oshawa Generals here tonight to lead the best of seven final series for the O.H.A. Memorial Cup and the Canadian Junior Hockey championship, three games to two.

The plucky Westerners were cheered to the echo by the 12,420 fans as they clinched the game with a three goal attack in the third period and then added two more for good measure in the last two minutes while Generals fought desperately for the tying goals.

Long Cal Gardner, hard shooting centre-ice star, sparked the Rangers to their all important triumph with three goals while Centre Church Russell got two and Wingers Ritchie McDonald and Eddie Coleman one apiece. The Oshawa goals were scored by Eddie Reigle, Bill Ezinicki and Albert (Red) Tilson.

The two teams meet again Wednesday night and if a seventh game is necessary to decide the action-packed series it will be played Saturday night.

Except for occasional moments, the fast-skating team from the West dominated play tonight. They skated rings around their bigger and more experienced opponents, virtually checked them dizzy and maintained a consistently powerful offensive from start to finish.

RANGERS TAKE OVER THE LEAD

The Rangers took a one-goal lead in the first period with Gardner firing the puck home and then went farther out in front in the second on McDonald's counter before Reigle tallied for Oshawa on a stirring lone rush.

Ezinicki tied it up for Oshawa early in the third period into which the two teams packed enough action for any full length hockey game. Just past the halfway mark Gardner scored and five minutes later Russell got the first of his pair which came less than a minute apart.

Tilson's goal after Boorman was penalized late in the period put Oshawa back within striking distance of victory but Coleman and Gardner rapped in a pair of counters seven second apart in the last half minute of play to sew up the game.

Tempers flared briefly in the first period when Ezinicki and Russell drew major penalties. The Oshawa winger had been waved off for cross-checking Coleman in the goal mouth and on the way off the ice he spilled Russell and a fight resulted. Referees Hap Shouldice and Ike Morrison kept the other players from making it a general melee.

Mother Is Boss—The system of government of the Gruasnians, also known as Georgians, was originally a matriarchy in which the woman lorded it over man, and children bore their mother's surname rather than their father's. It is for that reason that the female parent was known as Daddy, while the father was referred to by the incongruous name of Mama.

The most famous Georgian of our time is Joseph Stalin, the Soviet Prime Minister.

Derby Preview to Be Staged Today

Thirteen Scheduled to Face Barrier In Running of Trial Stakes

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26 (AP).—They're running a preview of the Kentucky Derby here tomorrow in two sections—just like the main event figures to finish on Saturday.

First, Count Fleet, the shortest-priced favorite in Derby history, will work out the full mile-and-a-quarter route between a couple of the early races on the Churchill Downs card. He'll be all by himself.

Then, a little later in the afternoon, thirteen of the other eligibles for the $75,000 race will go to the post in the Derby Trial Stakes. The chief reason for this, outside of picking up the big end of a $2,500 purse, appears to be to decide just which horses should be left home Saturday instead of going to the post.

The field for the trial mile includes all but three of the "name" horses. The three who'll be taking things easy are Blue Swords, Amber Light and Gold Shower, and the Shower showed today he really can pour when he wants to. Mrs. Vera Bragg's horse rattled off a mile over deep footing in 1:42 1-5, the fastest it's been done by any Derby dandy so far, and then went on out the full Derby route in 2:09 1-5. The only other dash of the day that had the railbirds chirping was a :47 1-5 half-mile blowout by the Count.

Warren Wright's Ocean Wave, impressive winner of the Bluegrass Stakes last week, naturally is the head man of the big trial field. But he's going to need his running shoes to roll home over such as Seven Hearts, who knocked him off Derby; Slide Rule and Twosies, the W. E. Boeing "bombers"; No Wrinkles, the hope of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars for her Second Derby winner, and Burnt Cork, the pride and joy of Mr. Benny's Rochester of the radio.

B.C. Branch Given $1,000

Receives Grant From Main Body

PORT ARTHUR, April 26 (CP).—An increase of $1,500 in grants to minor hockey was approved today by delegates attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association here.

The association allotted $1,000 each to the Maritimes, Quebec, Ottawa and district, Ontario Hockey Association, Thunder Bay and British Columbia branches, and $1,500 to each of the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta branches. Grants to minor hockey last year totaled $9,000.

A proposal that the allowance for junior clubs competing in play-offs be made the same as those for senior clubs was voted down by delegates.

Another proposal, that the age limit for junior players be advanced one year, also was turned down. A junior is a player under twenty years of age on November 1 of the season in which he wishes to play.

It was agreed that in the matter of intermediate play-offs separate records for the funds belonging to the East and West divisions would be kept in the same trust and that the C.A.H.A. would guarantee each intermediate branch against the loss of $200. Any surplus from the intermediate play-offs would be turned over to the C.A.H.A. trust.

The C.A.H.A. will provide for the transportation of fifteen men for an intermediate club and allow each club $65 a day living expenses.

The import ruling for both senior and junior clubs—four players to a club—was waived for the duration.

The C.A.H.A. approved rules changes which require no stoppage in play if a player closes his hand on the puck, but not for three seconds, and drops it at his feet, but which calls for a whistle if the player throws the puck in any direction.

A player who falls on, or gathers a loose puck into his body by any means other than playing the puck with his stick so as to gain possession will incur a minor penalty and in the case of a major penalty shot the puck shall be considered as having been kept in motion towards the opposition's line, even if the player carrying the puck makes what is known as a "pivot play."

Play would not be stopped if the puck touches an official while he is between the penalty shot lines.

V.M.D. and R.A.F. To Battle Saturday In Cup Fixture

KEEN soccer rivals all season, Victoria Machinery Depot and Royal Air Force teams will meet Saturday in the local final of the Province Cup competition. The level, grassy surface of Macdonald Park, one of Canada's finest playing fields, will be the scene of the cup-tie fixture, and local fans are displaying considerable interest in the probable outcome. Winner of the V.M.D.-R.A.F. match will move into the semi-final bracket right alongside three Mainland clubs. Saturday's kick-off is set for 3:45 o'clock, with Dave McMillan handling the whistle. In case of a draw at the end of the regulation playing time, overtime will be played. In a friendly fixture yesterday afternoon at Royal Athletic Park, St. Louis College, under eighteen footballers, defeated an R.A.F. team, 3-2. Collegians, Island representatives in the British Columbia final next Saturday at Vancouver, kept on the ball all of the time and were full value for their victory against the side turned out by the Royal Air Force to give the youngsters a stiff workout.

Baseball Starts In Old Country

LONDON, April 26 (CP). — United States headquarters defeated Canadian headquarters, 7-2, today in a game opening the baseball season in London.

Sgt. Peter E. Pavich of South Amboy, N.J., who was purchased by New York Giants before he joined the army, excelled at second base for the Canadians. Each team got seven hits.

"Chances Good," States Army Boss On Eve of Tussle

Victoria Team in Good Shape for Tonight—Shibicky in Hospital

CALGARY, April 26 (CP).—With Sapper Alex Shibicky, ace left winger of the Ottawa Commandos, in a local hospital nursing an injured heel that will not only keep him off the ice during the remainder of the play-offs, but may keep him away from military duties for at least two months, Coach Alex Smith finds it necessary to substitute the fast-skating Syd Fenn for the fourth game of the Allan Cup finals, scheduled at the arena on Tuesday night. Smith waited until the Commandos participated in a workout Monday morning before making a definite decision in favor of Fenn ahead of Sammy Sasano. Otherwise there will be no change to the Ottawa line-up. Defenceman "Bingo" Kampman has been nursing an injured back since Saturday's game but will be teaming with Cpl. Kenny Reardon when the game gets under way.

Lt. Bud Ray, manager-coach of the Victoria team, will depend upon the same line-up that scored a 4-3 overtime victory on Saturday. He reports that all his players are in tip-top condition.

BREAKS MAY DECIDE WINNER

Opinion of those who saw the first game here is that Tuesday's game will be keenly contested with victory going to the team that takes advantage of the breaks. This is also the opinion of the two coaches.

"It looks like a toss-up," states Alex Smith, "but the players are hopeful of achieving success and winding up the series."

"Hockey is too slippery a game to make any predictions," stated Lt. Ray, "but you can tell the fans that we consider our chances are just as good as they were Saturday. Should the breaks go our way then the task of deadlocking the play-off will be that much easier."

When the seat sale opened this morning there was the usual rush, indicating that another turnout of 5,000 or more enthusiasts will see Tuesday's event.

James P. (Jimmy) McCaffery, Commandos manager, was called back home owing to business reasons and Clare Brunton, of the Ottawa Auditorium is acting manager.

D. P. McDonald, C.A.H.A. representative, would not deny nor confirm reports new officials would be appointed to replace Garney Lafoe, of Toronto, and Dick Davis, of Winnipeg, for the fourth game.

"I have no official comment to make," stated Mr. McDonald. "Anyway, if there should be a change it would be made by Frank Sargent, C.A.H.A. president, who is at home in Port Arthur attending the annual hockey conference."

PORT ARTHUR, April 26 (CP).—Complaints regarding the officiating in the Allan Cup hockey finals between Ottawa Commandos and Victoria Army were discussed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association here tonight.

On request of Western representatives, the meeting decided that the officials, Garnie Large, of Toronto, and Dick Davis, of Winnipeg, would not be changed.

Fourth game of the best-of-five series, in which Ottawa leads two games to one, will be played at Calgary tomorrow night.

Veteran Umpire Dies

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 26 (CP).—Robert D. (Bob) Emslie, eighty-four, dean of major league baseball umpires, died at his home here early today after a long illness.

Emslie spent thirty-eight years as an umpire in professional ranks, thirty-four of them in the National League. Before becoming an umpire he enjoyed a successful career as a baseball pitcher, and was one of the first to throw curve balls.

Born in Guelph, Ont., January 27, 1850, Emslie played with Baltimore, Philadelphia, Syracuse, Toronto and Memphis before his arm went bad and he retired from active competition. He pitched his last game of baseball May 15, 1887, at Savannah, Ga.

He became an umpire by accident. On July 1, 1887, he went to Toronto to watch an International League game between Toronto and Hamilton. The official umpire failed to appear and Emslie was pressed into service. His work in that game won him a regular umpiring job in the International League. He joined the National League's umpiring staff in 1891. In 1925 he was placed on the National League's retired list.

WILLIE PEP WINS EASILY

PITTSBURG, April 26 (AP).—Willie Pep, New York's featherweight champion, tonight easily pounded out a decision in twelve rounds over Pittsburgh's Jackie Wilson, former N.B.A. champion.

The bout was an overweight affair, Pep coming in at 136 pounds and Wilson at 128.

TOAST and TEA

By J. V. McAREE

EVERYBODY knows the advantage of a good bedside manner, just as everybody knows what a depressing effect upon any patient a sickly-looking doctor would have. Like a bald-headed barber trying to sell a hair tonic, the doctor must radiate, not so much sympathy, as confidence. We know a doctor, who is one of the most successful in Toronto, who has developed a new technique. He is a most vigorous looking man, yet he appears to have been gripped by a succession of annoying or dangerous illnesses throughout his life. At least this appears to be so from his own story. Nearly every new patient, after having been diagnosed, is told that the doctor himself suffered from precisely the same malaise. Obviously he recovered and is at the moment bursting with health. The presumption is that he is precisely the man to effect the same change in the patient. Needless to say he almost invariably does.

NO. 115—EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 1943

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

CAN VICTORIA WIN TONIGHT?

That question, a very important one at that, will be the chief topic of discussion today no matter where you go. Victoria Army's confidence has been bolstered by its great victory early Sunday morning (it was after midnight when the final whistle sounded in Calgary) in the third game against the Ottawa Commandos after ten exciting and thrilling minutes of overtime. We all know what happened while Easter Sunday morn was still in its infancy. With a minute and thirty-four seconds remaining, Sam Kennedy fired home a terrific back-handed shot, which Jim Henry didn't know was in the cage until the red light flashed behind him. It was the finest Easter gift that Manager Bud Ray and Playing Coach Bill Carse has received in many a moon . . . The Commandos had previously staged two successful raids against the Army from this Island and were within reach of their objective, the Allan Cup, when the Victoria soldiers counter-attacked with determination, fighting hearts, stamina and with blazing speed. It was a fierce uphill fight from the time the signal was given to go into action until Saturday was pushed off the calendar by Sunday. Then as the big clock in the rink signified that the "day of days" was upon the 5,500 in the jammed arena, Mr. Kennedy thought it was time to end the argument, which he did a few minutes past midnight . . . Can Victoria win this evening and tie up the series? Yes, I would say they have a mighty fine chance of pulling up on even terms with the powerful Commandos. In the first place the former New York Ranger line of attack is broken up with Alex Shibicky in the hospital. Take a main cog out of any machine and it's bound to weaken it, but, at the same time, this accident may make the Commandos fight all the harder . . . It should be a thriller all the way; the breaks may decide it, and then again, it may be one-sided. My choice, and I hope it back fires, is Ottawa by three goals, so don't say I didn't tell you so.

FROM HERE AND THERE

"Victoria will win Tuesday night and then go on and capture the cup," stated Doug Fletcher, president of the Vancouver Island Hockey League, over the telephone last night as we discussed the series in Calgary. Doug, by the way, was on the verge of hot-footing it for the Alberta city on Sunday to take in the battle tonight, but he changed his mind at the last minute . . . "You will be taking your hat off to the Army yet," said Mrs. M —— Easter Sunday afternoon as I passed her place en route to the city. Although I don't wear head gear of any sort I will salute the boys when they come home, win or lose . . . Unwrap that Memorial Cup and hold it in abeyance for the Winnipeg Rangers are now ahead in the race for it by beating the Oshawa Generals last night in convincing style. They must be out to avenge the setback the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. took in the Allan Cup play-downs in the West . . . I never knew there were so many wise people in the city until after Saturday's game in Alberta. Every second person I met on Sunday said: "I told you so. I can't figure out how you thought the Ottawa team was going to win three straight." The same people pick fight winners when the bouts are finished, never miss at the race track, in fact, they are always hitting the nail on the head the day after. Still they wouldn't lay a dime on a race between a rabbit and a turtle . . . Last season the San Diego Padres were meat for the Seattle Rainiers, Skiff's club taking nineteen out of twenty-six from the Californians, but this season the Southerners have gotten away to a good start, having taken six out of eight games as the campaign was ushered in.

ODDS AND ENDS

This column said a week ago that the Canadian men's senior basketball championship finals would not be played this season due to financial reasons, and now it has been announced as official. Victoria R.C.A.F. will rest on their laurels as Western titleholders, but if the Eastern winners had come to the Coast for the series the airmen would have most likely succeeded the Dominoes as national champions, for they had everything in their favor, including a high-powered ball club. And so ends another casaba season with Victoria sharing a good deal of the spotlight . . . When the man behind the mike on the public address bellows out the batteries for the R.C.A.F. ball squad next Saturday afternoon, don't be the least bit surprised if he doesn't call out the name of Phil Marchildon as starting pitcher for the Flyers. The former member of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics is stationed here and when he starts breezing them over the plate the batters in this circuit will be breaking their backs trying to get a safety through the infield. If the ex-big leaguer has a good battery mate the air force will be in the thick of the running from the start . . . Do you know that Tommy Fielding, former local lightweight boxer, is now in New Guinea as a member of a ground crew in the Royal Australia Air Force? Tommy fought many a gallant fight in the old Tillicum gymnasium, but the local boy met his Waterloo the night he swapped blows with Billy Townsend down in Portland. That was the beginning of the end of his boxing career, for the Vancouver belter belted him to ribbons in the Rose City. But now Tommy is fighting the greatest battle of his lifetime . . . Remember when Dick Moore, young blond-haired shotmaker at the time, won the British Columbia amateur golf title at the Oak Bay links for the first time? That was ten years ago on an Easter Monday and if you enthusiasts recall that day you will remember how it hailed, snowed and blew at the course.

Winnipeg Rangers Trounce Oshawa

Westerners Take Lead in Junior Ice Series by Scoring 7-3 Triumph

By FRASER McDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 26 (CP). — The Winnipeg Rangers hurtled to a 7-3 victory over Oshawa Generals here tonight to lead the best of seven final series for the O.H.A. Memorial Cup and the Canadian Junior Hockey championship, three games to two.

The plucky Westerners were cheered to the echo by the 12,420 fans as they clinched the game with a three goal attack in the third period and then added two more for good measure in the last two minutes while Generals fought desperately for the tying goals.

Long Cal Gardner, hard shooting centre-ice star, sparked the Rangers to their all important triumph with three goals while Centre Church Russell got two and Wingers Ritchie McDonald and Eddie Coleman one apiece. The Oshawa goals were scored by Eddie Reigle, Bill Ezinicki and Albert (Red) Tilson.

The two teams meet again Wednesday night and if a seventh game is necessary to decide the action-packed series it will be played Saturday night.

Except for occasional moments, the fast-skating team from the West dominated play tonight. They skated rings around their bigger and more experienced opponents, virtually checked them dizzy and maintained a consistently powerful offensive from start to finish.

RANGERS TAKE OVER THE LEAD

The Rangers took a one-goal lead in the first period with Gardner firing the puck home and then went farther out in front in the second on McDonald's counter before Reigle tallied for Oshawa on a stirring lone rush.

Ezinicki tied it up for Oshawa early in the third period into which the two teams packed enough action for any full length hockey game. Just past the halfway mark Gardner scored and five minutes later Russell got the first of his pair which came less than a minute apart.

Tilson's goal after Boorman was penalized late in the period put Oshawa back within striking distance of victory but Coleman and Gardner rapped in a pair of counters seven second apart in the last half minute of play to sew up the game.

Tempers flared briefly in the first period when Ezinicki and Russell drew major penalties. The Oshawa winger had been waved off for cross-checking Coleman in the goal mouth and on the way off the ice he spilled Russell and a fight resulted. Referees Hap Shouldice and Ike Morrison kept the other players from making it a general melee.

LINE-UPS

Derby Preview to Be Staged Today

Thirteen Scheduled to Face Barrier In Running of Trial Stakes

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26 (AP)—They're running a preview of the Kentucky Derby here tomorrow in two sections—just like the main event figures to finish on Saturday.

First Count Fleet, the shortest-priced favorite in Derby history, will work out the full mile-and-a-quarter route between a couple of the early races on the Churchill Downs card. He'll be all by himself.

Then, a little later in the afternoon, thirteen of the other eligibles for the $75,000 race will go to the post in the Derby Trial Stakes. The chief reason for this, outside of picking up the big end of a $2,500 purse, appears to be to decide just which horses should be left home Saturday instead of going to the post.

The field for the trial mile includes all but three of the "name" horses. The three who'll be taking things easy are Blue Swords, Amber Light and Gold Shower, and the Shower showed today he really can pour when he wants to. Mrs. Vera Bragg's horse rattled off a mile over deep footing in 1:42 1-5, the fastest it's been done by any Derby dandy so far, and then went on out the full Derby route in 2:09 1-5. The only other dash of the day that had the railbirds chirping was a :47 1-5 half-mile blowout by the Count.

Warren Wright's Ocean Wave, impressive winner of the Bluegrass Stakes last week, naturally is the head man of the big trial field. But he's going to need his running shoes to roll home over such as Seven Hearts, who knocked him off Derby; Slide Rule and Twosies, the W. E. Boeing "bombers"; No Wrinkles, the hope of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars for her Second Derby winner, and Burnt Cork, the pride and joy of Mr. Benny's Rochester of the radio.

B.C. Branch Given $1,000

Receives Grant From Main Body

PORT ARTHUR, April 26 (CP).—An increase of $1,500 in grants to minor hockey was approved today by delegates attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association here.

The association allotted $1,000 each to the Maritimes, Quebec, Ottawa and district, Ontario Hockey Association, Thunder Bay and British Columbia branches, and $1,500 to each of the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta branches. Grants to minor hockey last year totaled $9,000.

A proposal that the allowance for junior clubs competing in play-offs be made the same as those for senior clubs was voted down by delegates.

Another proposal, that the age limit for junior players be advanced one year, also was turned down. A junior is a player under twenty years of age on November 1 of the season in which he wishes to play.

It was agreed that in the matter of intermediate play-offs separate records for the funds belonging to the East and West divisions would be kept in the same trust and that the C.A.H.A. would guarantee each intermediate branch against the loss of $200. Any surplus from the intermediate play-offs would be turned over to the C.A.H.A. trust.

The C.A.H.A. will provide for the transportation of fifteen men for an intermediate club and allow each club $65 a day living expenses.

The import ruling for both senior and junior clubs—four players to a club—was waived for the duration.

The C.A.H.A. approved rules changes which require no stoppage in play if a player closes his hand on the puck, but not for three seconds, and drops it at his feet, but which calls for a whistle if the player throws the puck in any direction.

A player who falls on, or gathers a loose puck into his body by any means other than playing the puck with his stick so as to gain possession will incur a minor penalty and in the case of a major penalty shot the puck shall be considered as having been kept in motion towards the opposition's line, even if the player carrying the puck makes what is known as a "pivot play."

Play would not be stopped if the puck touches an official while he is between the penalty shot lines.

V.M.D. and R.A.F. To Battle Saturday In Cup Fixture

KEEN soccer rivals all season, Victoria Machinery Depot and Royal Air Force teams will meet Saturday in the local final of the Province Cup competition. The level, grassy surface of Macdonald Park, one of Canada's finest playing fields, will be the scene of the cup-tie fixture, and local fans are displaying considerable interest in the probable outcome. Winner of the V.M.D.-R.A.F. match will move into the semi-final bracket right alongside three Mainland clubs. Saturday's kick-off is set for 3:45 o'clock, with Dave McMillan handling the whistle. In case of a draw at the end of the regulation playing time, overtime will be played. In a friendly fixture yesterday afternoon at Royal Athletic Park, St. Louis College, under eighteen footballers, defeated an R.A.F. team, 5-2. Collegians, Island representatives in the British Columbia final next Saturday at Vancouver, kept on the ball all of the time and were full value for their victory against the side turned out by the Royal Air Force to give the youngsters a stiff workout.

"Chances Good," States Army Boss On Eve of Tussle

Victoria Team in Good Shape for Tonight—Shibicky in Hospital

CALGARY, April 26 (CP).—With Sapper Alex. Shibicky, ace left winger of the Ottawa Commandos, in a local hospital nursing an injured heel that will not only keep him off the ice during the remainder of the play-offs, but may keep him away from military duties for at least two months, Coach Alex Smith finds it necessary to substitute the fast-skating Syd. Fenn for the fourth game of the Allan Cup finals, scheduled at the arena on Tuesday night. Smith waited until the Commandos participated in a workout Monday morning before making a definite decision in favor of Fenn ahead of Sammy Sasano. Otherwise there will be no change to the Ottawa line-up. Defenceman "Bingo" Kampman has been nursing an injured back since Saturday's game but will be teaming with Cpl. Kenny Reardon when the game gets under way.

Lt. Bud Ray, manager-coach of the Victoria team, will depend upon the same line-up that scored a 4-3 overtime victory on Saturday. He reports that all his players are in tip-top condition.

BREAKS MAY DECIDE WINNER

Opinion of those who saw the first game here is that Tuesday's game will be keenly contested with victory going to the team that takes advantage of the breaks. This is also the opinion of the two coaches.

"It looks like a toss-up," states Alex Smith, "but the players are hopeful of achieving success and winding up the series."

"Hockey is too slippery a game to make any predictions," stated Lt. Ray, "but you can tell the fans that we consider our chances are just as good as they were Saturday. Should the breaks go our way then the task of deadlocking the play-off will be that much easier."

When the seat sale opened this morning there was the usual rush, indicating that another turnout of 5,000 or more enthusiasts will see Tuesday's event.

James P. (Jimmy) McCaffery, Commandos manager, was called back home owing to business reasons and Clare Brunton, of the Ottawa Auditorium, is acting manager.

D. P. McDonald, C.A.H.A. representative, would not deny nor confirm reports new officials would be appointed to replace Garney Large, of Toronto, and Dick Davis, of Winnipeg, for the fourth game.

"I have no official comment to make," stated Mr. McDonald. "Anyway, if there should be a change it would be made by Frank Sargent, C.A.H.A. president, who is at home in Port Arthur attending the annual hockey conference."

PORT ARTHUR, April 26 (CP).—Complaints regarding the officiating in the Allan Cup hockey finals between Ottawa Commandos and Victoria Army were discussed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association here tonight.

On request of Western representatives, the meeting decided that the officials, Garnie Large, of Toronto, and Dick Davis, of Winnipeg, would not be changed.

Fourth game of the best-of-five series, in which Ottawa leads two games to one, will be played at Calgary tomorrow night.

Veteran Umpire Dies

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 26 (CP). —Robert D. (Bob) Emslie, eighty-four, dean of major league baseball umpires, died at his home here early today after a long illness.

Emslie spent thirty-eight years as an umpire in professional ranks, thirty-four of them in the National League. Before becoming an umpire he enjoyed a successful career as a baseball pitcher, and was one of the first to throw curve balls.

Born in Guelph, Ont., January 27, 1858, Emslie played with Baltimore, Philadelphia, Syracuse, Toronto and Memphis before his arm went bad and he retired from active competition. He pitched his last game of baseball May 15, 1887, at Savannah, Ga.

He became an umpire by accident. On July 1, 1887, he went to Toronto to watch an International League game between Toronto and Hamilton. The official umpire failed to appear and Emslie was pressed into service. His work in that game won him a regular umpiring job in the International League. He joined the National League's umpiring staff in 1891. In 1925 he was placed on the National League's retired list.

WILLIE PEP WINS EASILY

PITTSBURG, April 26 (AP).—Willie Pep, New York's featherweight champion, tonight easily pounded out a decision in twelve rounds over Pittsburgh's Jackie Wilson, former N.B.A. champion.

The bout was an overweight affair, Pep coming in at 128 pounds and Wilson at 128.

TOAST and TEA

By J. V. McAREE

EVERYBODY knows the advantage of a good bedside manner, just as everybody knows what a depressing effect upon any patient a sickly-looking doctor would have. Like a bald-headed barber trying to sell a hair tonic, the doctor must radiate, not so much sympathy, as confidence. We know a doctor, who is one of the most successful in Toronto, who has developed a new technique. He is a most vigorous looking man, yet he appears to have been gripped by a succession of annoying or dangerous illnesses throughout his life. At least this appears to be so from his own story. Nearly every new patient, after having been diagnosed, is told that the doctor himself suffered from precisely the same malaise. Obviously he recovered and is at the moment bursting with health. The presumption is that he is precisely the man to effect the same change in the patient. Needless to say he almost invariably does.

● "The only good thing about a blackout," observed a Londoner recently, "is that it is temporary."

But there can be a permanent blackout for the family of the man who has insufficient life insurance—a blackout which may condemn widow and children to a twilight life of privation and hardship.

Suppose the unexpected should happen to you? Are your assets and life insurance sufficient to provide your loved ones with at least a few of the comforts of life? Are you sure?

Why not consult your local Imperial Life representative? He will tell you how you can, within your means, make "blackouts" only a hazy memory in post-war years. A half-hour's time—a wise decision—now—may save your family from future want.

Company Earnings Show Big Increase

Canadian National Railway employees subscribed $5,000,000 to Canada's Third Victory Loan, and the company is conducting a campaign asking that the amount be substantially increased for the present drive, K. C. Vaughan, president, said in an interview yesterday at the Empress Hotel.

Here on a routine trip, his third since taking over the presidency of the Government-owned transportation system, Mr. Vaughan spoke of the trouble encountered during the extreme cold weather of the last Winter, but added "We were able to keep traffic moving fairly regularly, despite adverse conditions."

Canadian National Railway business is showing an increase of 100 per cent over 1939, with the gross earnings of the company reflecting the upswing in travel, the executive stated. Rolling stock is kept in good condition despite being taxed to capacity and the added difficulty of getting materials, Mr. Vaughan out of the daily travel at the request of the Federal Transit Board, but one of the chief problems at the moment is the handling of the exceptionally heavy civilian week-end travel. With the railway carrying so many members of the services and war commodities, it was found necessary to conduct campaigns asking the general public to refrain from week-end travel wherever possible.

MANY EMPLOYEES IN THE SERVICES

Canadian National Railway employees totaling 12,000 are serving in the three branches of Canada's Fighting Forces, while another 2,000 are members of the merchant marine. "Those men," Mr. Vaughan stated, "have been promised their jobs back when the war is over, and the company is busy now studying problems of rehabilitation in order to be properly equipped to handle the problem when it arises," he concluded.

Getting back to the Victory Loan, Mr. Vaughan intimated that the Canadian National Railway would invest something like $12,000,000 to $13,000,000 in the present loan.

Mr. Vaughan will remain in the city for about three days before going to Montreal, his head office.

FOR HITCH-HIKING

The action of a man's thumb is one of the few specifically human characteristics of the body.

"Dina Cashman"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XIII

She had had that to remember as she had turned back in December darkness to the ashes and rainpools, the shanties, noises and smells of the Flats, to the garish light of the kitchen and supper plates plastered with the grease of lamb stew.

That had been before Christmas, before she had dreamed—before she had feared what she dreamed and feared now. She never should have let him go; it might have shocked him, it might have sobered or even disgusted him, but Vere was too affectionate, too much the loving, plundering puppy she had so often called him, to desert her now.

But how and where could she find him, and if she did find him what could he say to his father and his mother; what would his career be, going East to law school with a wife clinging to him and a baby on the way? Dina pondered it until she was heartsick with the hopelessness of it, and she could see no way out.

Dina, Dooley and Lou and the two smaller children were out in the forlorn patch of earth they called the garden, ostensibly doing what they could to make it presentable after the deluging rains of mid-Winter.

But only Dooley really was helping. Dooley was a squarely built little girl of twelve who liked working with her big sister and was like Dina in that she was already assuming such responsibility as she could for the welfare of the family. Myrna, at fourteen, always had engagements on Sundays now; her pretty young face powdered, her pretty soft hair curled, her lips of the color and wetness of blood, she was off with her adored Nancy as soon as the breakfast dishes were done.

Lou, ten, was a pale, undernourished-looking little creature who was hanging today like some small wood animal on the gate, letting the sunshine penetrate her very bones. Elmer and Donny, the babies of the family, were busy with an old wagon, ropes, bottles and planks and paid no more attention to Dina's efforts than if she had been one of the gulls that were walking and complaining on the roofs of the old red boxcars that had been stalled on a siding for all the years that any inhabitant had known Railway Flats.

Dina had on an old cotton dress; she had tied a clean length of burlap firmly about her hips; her head was enveloped in a gypsy handkerchief; her slender legs were bare from where the dress stopped at her knees to where they disappeared into a pair of old tennis shoes. She was equipped for a mean job, and something in her rose to it and liked it.

"If the worst thing in the world were only mean jobs!" she said to herself more than once. "If I were what everyone thinks I am, just Dina Cashman, cleaning up the place and talking to the kids; if I could go back to last October and get engaged to Tom and have a little wedding—we could have it at the O'Connor place—Miss Tipman would let us have the double parlors."

She was so sick, and tired of fear and shame! Tired of thinking, thinking, thinking with no end to the thinking! Days were going by and were weeks; time was bringing her inevitably to the moment when she must act, when something must be done.

And she seemed helpless, like a frantic little mouse in a trap, running around and around desperately, sniffing at every outlet, and in the end only a few hours nearer destruction.

"Pretty hopeless, isn't it?" Mrs. van Hooten working away in her garden with three milk-blond babies for companions, called cheerfully.

"Hopeless!" Dina answered back, swallowing, managing a smile.

She had a rake, against the broken strip of side porch a broom worn down to the hard nubble of the strings was leaning.

Dina had raked a snarl of cans, ropes, webbed papers, and straw into a heap and was pushing it on a square of old sacking spread on the ground. The dumps were but a hundred feet away, and fires were smoldering there even on this Sunday morning.

"We don't have much trouble getting rid of it, that's a good thing!" the little Dutch neighbor called.

"I was thinking that!" Dina set milk bottles, clotted with mud, in a row on the fence. Some ten feet of good strong wooden paling stood on one side of the Cashman lot. Just why it was there nobody ever seemed to know.

On either end of the unfenced lumpy ground was free again. But it did serve the purpose of a garage; the Cashman car, when not in use, was nosed into it on one side and the Brennan car on the other.

Dina panted in the heat, wiped her forehead with her forearm. She swept the soaked and rotting accumulations of rubbish from the steps, stooped to pull up a particularly tough bunch of grass, found it immovable, and straightened her aching back up to smile into the eyes of Tom O'Connor, unexpectedly beside her.

In wartime, more things need Lux care—dip them regularly in LUX.

The mildest, safest Lux ever made... dissolves twice as fast ... richer, longer-lasting suds that do more work. New, bigger package, more for your money!

Now, when the big problem is to make clothes last longer, here's new improved Lux—the safest, mildest ever made! Rayons, silks, woolens, cottons need Lux care now. Lux dissolves twice as fast—gives richer, harder-working suds. And the package is bigger—more for your money!

Avoid strong soaps, cake-soap rubbing. These may wear things out. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux!

Victoria Navy Hero's Dog on Loan Broadcast

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP).—"Posh," mascot of the Canadian corvette Weyburn who survived the sinking of that vessel in the Mediterranean last month, is on his way back to St. Jean Port-Joli, Que., after participating in a Victory Loan broadcast from Ottawa, it was learned today.

The dog is in charge of Chief Petty Officer Joseph T. L. Lavoie with whom he spent most of his time aboard ship in the engineroom.

C.P.O. Lavoie is keeping the dog at his home pending instructions from Mrs. T. M. W. Golby, of Victoria, widow of Lieut.-Cmdr. Golby, the commander of the Weyburn who lost his life in the sinking of the ship.

The dog was a gift to Lieut.-Cmdr. Golby from his daughter, Pamela, and was taken on as a member of the crew, sailing with the ship from Canada to Britain and later into the Mediterranean.

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 26 (AP).—Five youthful prisoners engineered a daylight escape from the Arizona State Prison here today, using a crudely constructed ladder to scale the wall.

than 100 Australian airmen marched through downtown Edmonton yesterday in commemoration of Anzac Day Cenotaph in honor of their countrymen killed during the storming of Gallipoli.

WOMEN BUILT SUBMARINE

GROTON, Conn., April 26 (AP).—The submarine Dace was the first ship to be built in part by the Electric Boat Company's new women workers, so when it was launched yesterday, they also helped to launch it. Mrs. Luba Eaves and Mrs. Alida Alligood burned away restraining plates to let the sleek undersea craft slide down the ways.

Finance–Commerce–Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP).—Timid selling, attributed partly to apprehension over the coal labor situation, halted an early stock rally today but failed to unsettle the market to any particular extent.

Gains at the start ranged from fractions to a point or more. Prices began to slip before mid-day. Mixed tendencies prevailed at the close although quiet strength developed in the final hour for merchandisings, air transports and specialties. Profit cashing in the recently buoyant rubbers and utilities helped stall these groups. Steels, motors and coppers did little either way.

Associated Press average of sixty stocks finished unchanged at 48.9 where it was just .9 of a point under the top mark since May, 1940, established April 6 last.

Of 893 individual issues traded, 328 were down, 326 up, and 239 unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,125,305 shares compared with 1,249,920 in the previous full session.

Erie certificates were a feature coming out on an initial 10,000-share block with a point advance to a new 1943 high. They were up 1¼ net at 15 at the close. Others in the "new high" class included American Telephone, Pure Oil, Goodrich and Gunbel.

Minus signs were attached to U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Western Union, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber Common and Preferred, Westinghouse, General Electric, Boeing, Glenn Martin, North American and Johns-Manville.

Bonds were relatively steady.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., April 26 (CP). — P.O. Walter Kenneth McGregor, twenty-three, now back in England after serving two years in Russia, in a letter received by his parents here recently told how he and the crew of his plane were "captured" by Russian guerrillas after a forced landing on a flight from Britain to Russia last September.

"When we got there we had a spot of trouble and had to make a forced landing," he wrote. "However, none of us were hurt. After destroying all the secret documents and equipment we sat around waiting for someone to come along.

"Pretty soon some Russian kids came along. We gave them some chocolate and everything was O.K. Soon some guerrillas came along and 'captured' us (rifles and bayonets and stuff)."

The guerrillas took the airmen to the local commissar's office. Shortly afterwards, however, some Russian airmen arrived to take the grounded party to their airdrome.
